The Active World - 72

Physically, it occupies only 23 acres of land
On the west bank of the Des Plaines River
And four years of a lifetime.
But in actuality, it controls the vital crossroads
Where youthful exuberance and curiosity
Meet man's accumulated knowledge
And merge into mature concepts of life.
Between its traditional symbol, the tower,
And the modern facilities of Memorial Hall,
It encompasses the dreams of the three generations
That have passed through the boundaries of
The World of Proviso Pete.

Proviso Pete Blasts Off to Start New Year

"NO, ONE ROW BACK!" Big Sisters direct freshmen to their assembly seats in auditorium.

Dr. Hoover's cheery "Good morning faculty,
Students, and ladies in the cafeteria,"
Launched Proviso Pete, the space-age pirate
Who represents East's student body,
On a year of concern about the Communist threat
From Castro's Cuba
And worrying about rumored plans
To close the campus.
The thrill of following the flights
Of two American astronauts, Schirra and Cooper,
And the excitement of electing
East's first homecoming queen in October, however,
Overshadowed such solemn aspects.
All year these experiences helped Provisoites
Take a deeper interest in the main objective
Of high school life:
Acquiring the necessary knowledge
To understand their twentieth-century world.

FRESHMEN PONDER the fastest way from homeroom lists to homeroom.

Twist Distorts Physical-Fitness Plans

Though seven hours of classes often proved taxing,
Provisoites usually "moved ahead with great 'vigah'"
To Al's, Maytown, and the Huddle, where,
Despite European squabbles over Common Market,
French fries and Italian beef
Still coexisted peacefully.
At such times, conversation centered
Around how often they had seen West Side Story
And on Vaughn Meader's satire of the First Family.
"If I Had a Hammer" enraptured folk-song fans
While The Beverly Hillbillies replaced Ben Casey
As the top attraction of the television screen.
Although the President advocated fifty-mile hikes,
Provisoites kept in shape by getting out of shape—
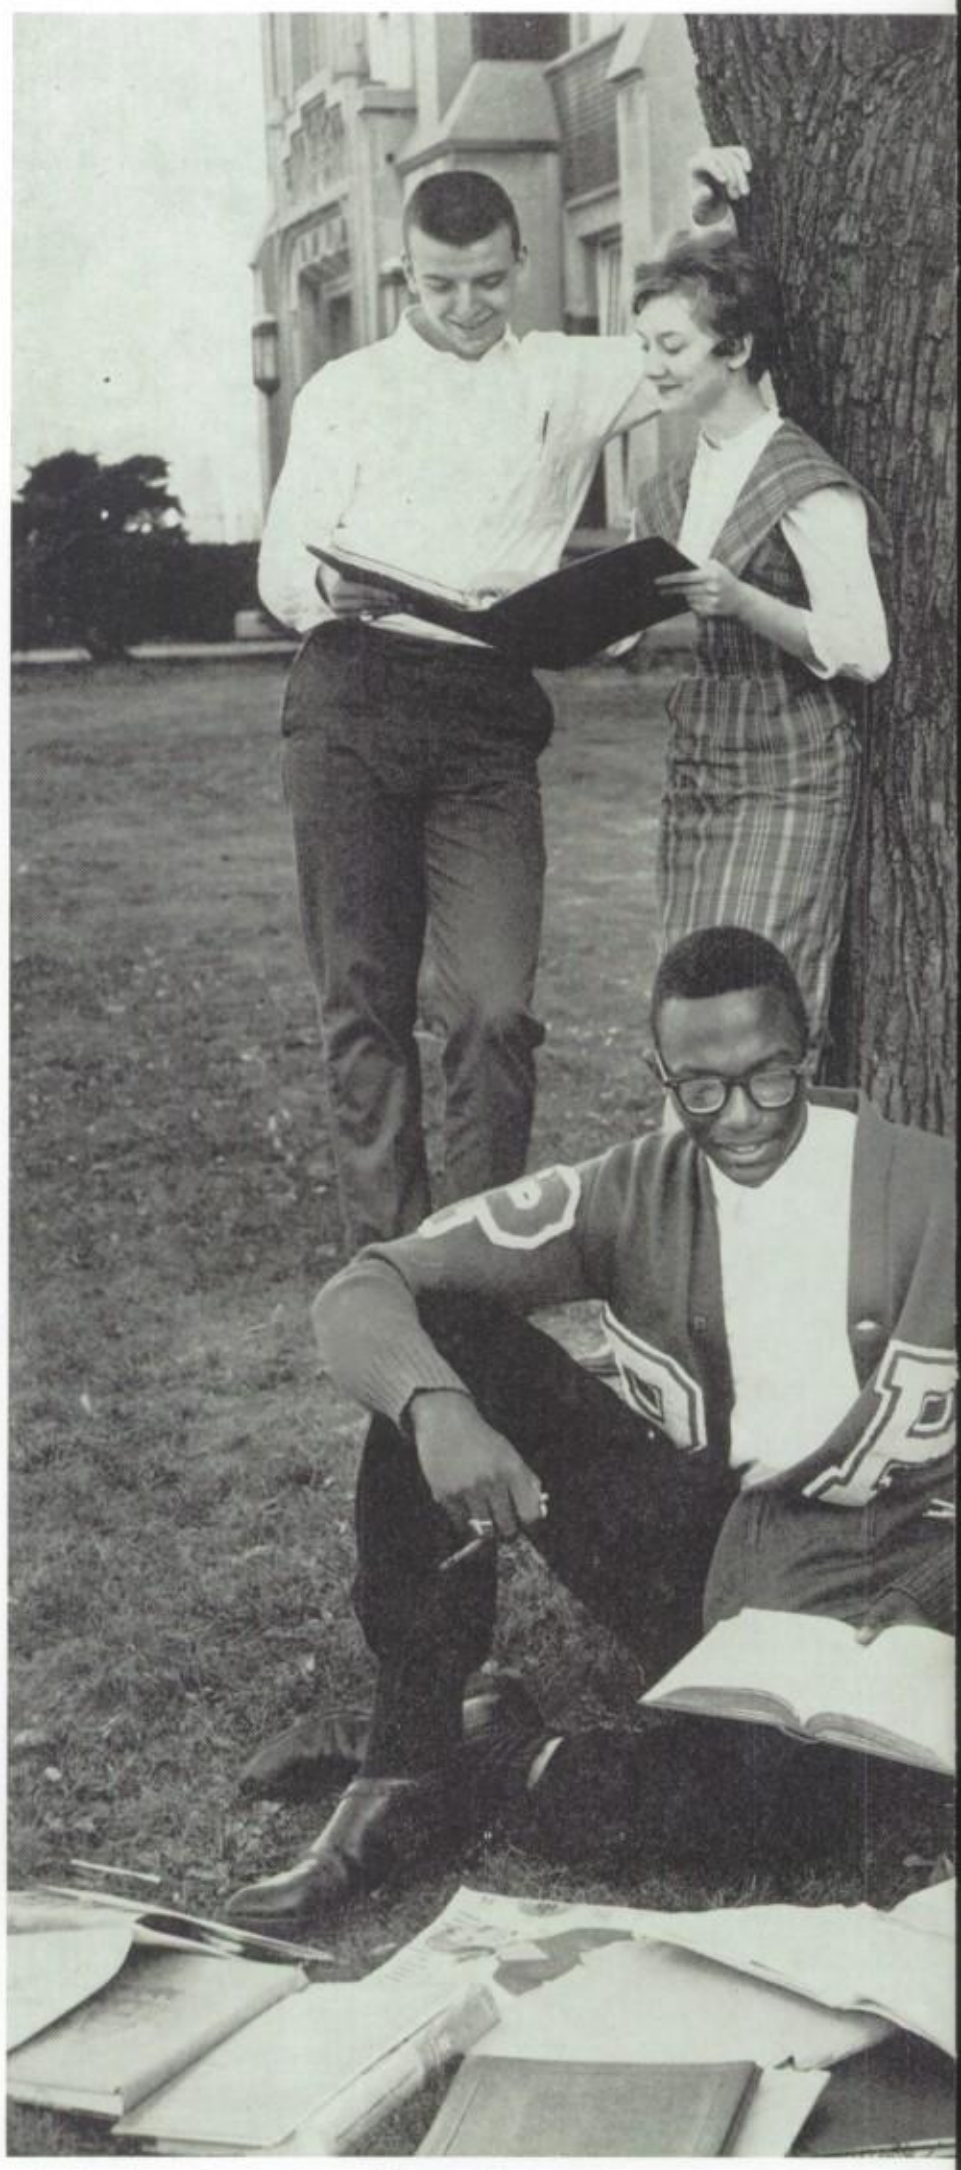
Doing the twist—
And left the Bossa Nova to the college crowd.

INGENIOUS freshman selects secluded spot to consult her Blue Book.



ANTICIPATION of graduation and increased concern about school work and future plans confront seniors as they begin final year at East.

Spurred on by the status of new washroom signs
Reading "Men" and "Ladies"
Instead of "Boys" and "Girls,"
East students sought to obtain still more prestige
By donning mature collegiate sweatshirts.
Girls squeezed into sophisticated stretch slacks
While boys adopted debonair turtle-neck ascots
And light but warm quilted jackets.
But regardless of current fashions,
School regulations saw that shirt tails
Stayed tucked in and that ratted hairstyles
Did not admit daylight
Through their bouffant waves.

Autumn Brings Tests, Tests, Tests

As September came to an end with two days of tests,
The newly-painted beige lockers
Began housing light wraps, protection
Against the gradually decreasing temperature.
While Girls' League Good Ghosts
Canvassed for canned goods,
Seniors rushed to their counselors
For PSAT, ACT, and SAT registration forms
And prepared for another barrage of tests
Before filing college applications.

PERENNIAL WINNER, Key Club again takes first place with its entry.

Rainy Homecoming Greets First Queen

With each successive raindrop, the morning downpour
Slowly washed away hopes for a sunny homecoming,
But float builders doggedly stuck to their task,
Removing protective water-proof covering
To add final touches
Whenever the rain stopped for a few minutes
And frantically replacing them
At the first sign of another shower.
Although the weather
Forced the band to cancel its half-time show,
It did not dampen the crowd's enthusiasm
As the Pirates slushed through a muddy field
To defeat Morton East 14-0.
Throughout the game, the traditional mum corsages
Sought refuge in plastic bags
To retain their freshness for the day's highlight—
The homecoming dance "Injun Summer"
Which climaxed in the long-awaited coronation
Of East's first homecoming queen.

QUEEN CANDIDATES Adele Lorenz, Leslie Coleman, Jane Merydith, Janis Young, and Dorislyn Brzeczek await announcement of winner.

CLIMAXING FESTIVITIES, Student Council president Joel Schick crowns Adele Lorenz East's first homecoming queen at the dance "Injun Summer."

ESCAPING typical November weather, East's juniors and their dates whirl through dream-clouds of "Silver Mist" at the annual junior ball.

JUNIOR GIRL smiles and adjusts her corsage as her date looks on.

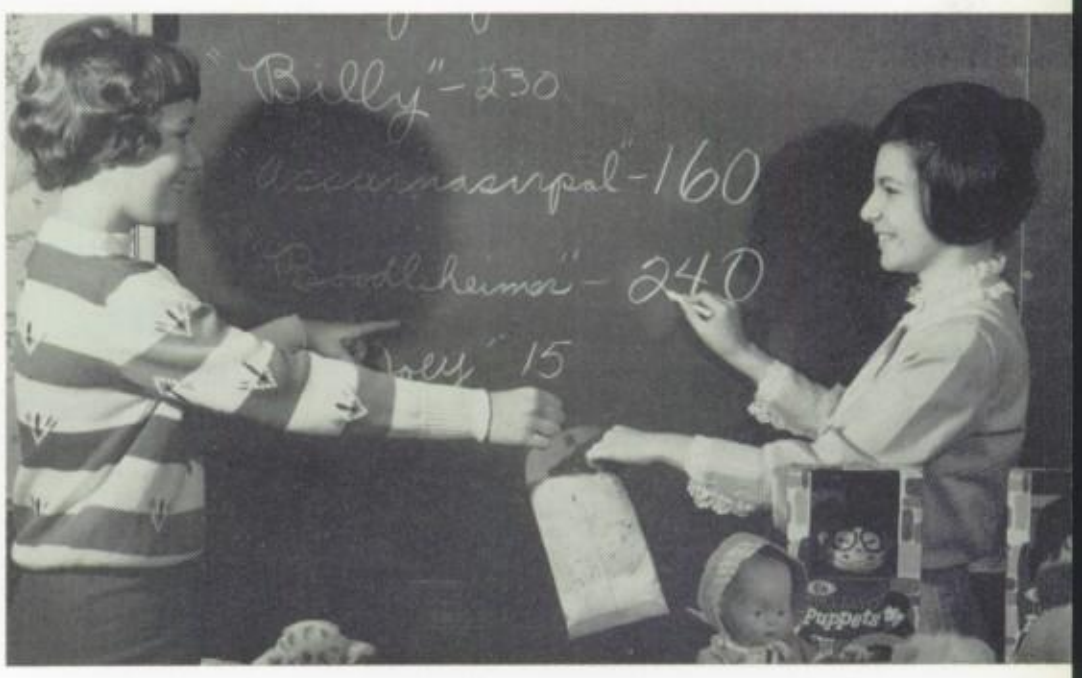
ENERGETIC COUPLE proves that the twist must share its popularity.

Snowfall of Activity Disrupts Schoolwork

As football fever gave way to basketball mania,
Freshman class elections,
Girls' League teas,
Dad and Daughter Date Night,
The junior ball "Silver Mist,"
Apprehension over first report cards,
And the shivering excitement of waiting outside
While officials searched for a reported bomb
Broke the routine of classwork.

ADMIRING students observe the Christmas tree in Memorial Garden.

HOMEROOM VOTERS christen stuffed animals during the doll project.



STRAINS of "Silent Night" and "O Come, All Ye Faithful" echo through the halls as choir members roam the building singing carols.

Christmas Projects Help Less Fortunate

Although contributing to Rankin Cove,
Student Council's Thanksgiving project,
And voting for names for dolls and stuffed animals
During Girls' League's doll project
Made sizable dents in savings,
Christmas shopping expeditions still produced
Complaints of aching feet
And countless whispered consultations on what to buy.
But despite their own holiday preparations,
Provisoites took the time to help others
By collecting clothing for Rankin Cove residents.

Sing Along Assemblies

Ushers Out 1962

From the traditional concert of holiday music,
To the final notes of "Silent Night"
Which concluded each class assembly,
Carols and other seasonal songs
Expressed East's holiday spirits
While a light snowfall
Fulfilled hopes for a white Christmas.

CONTRIBUTIONS of clothing for Rankin Cove pour into Room 103.

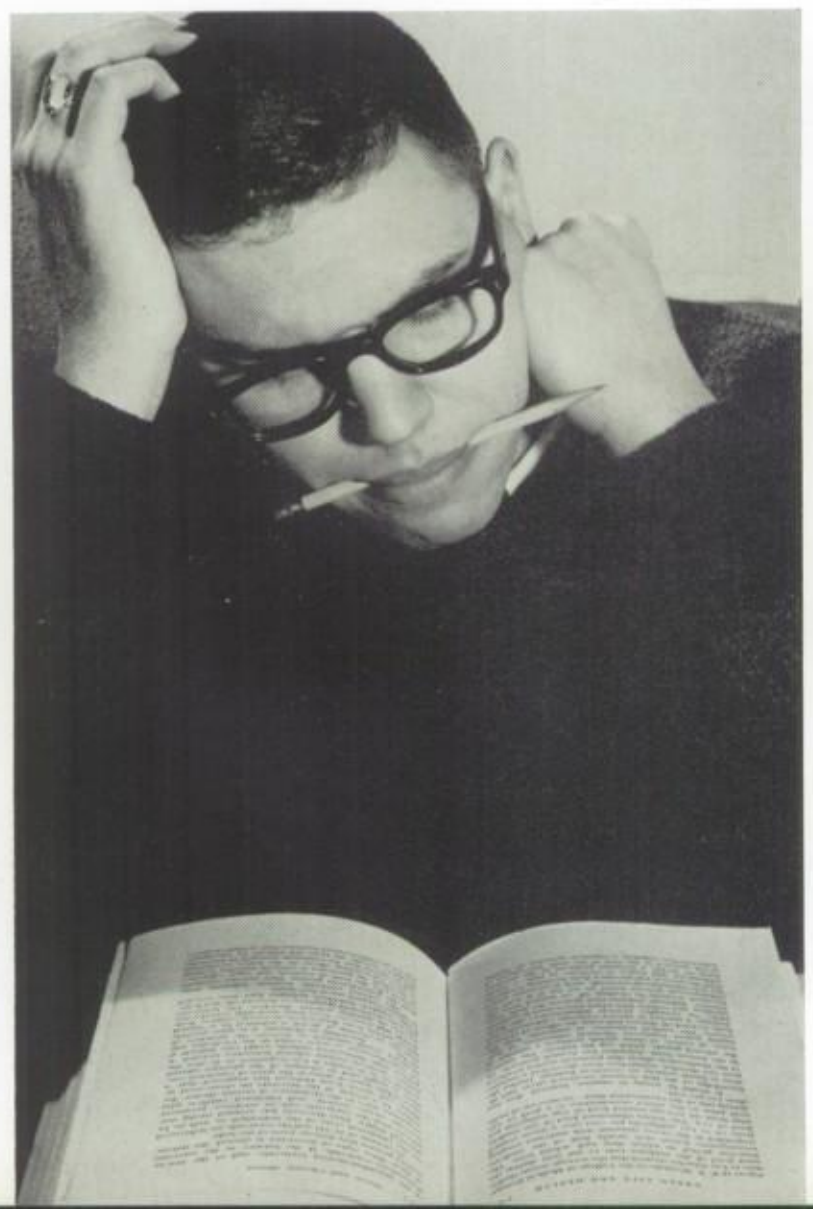
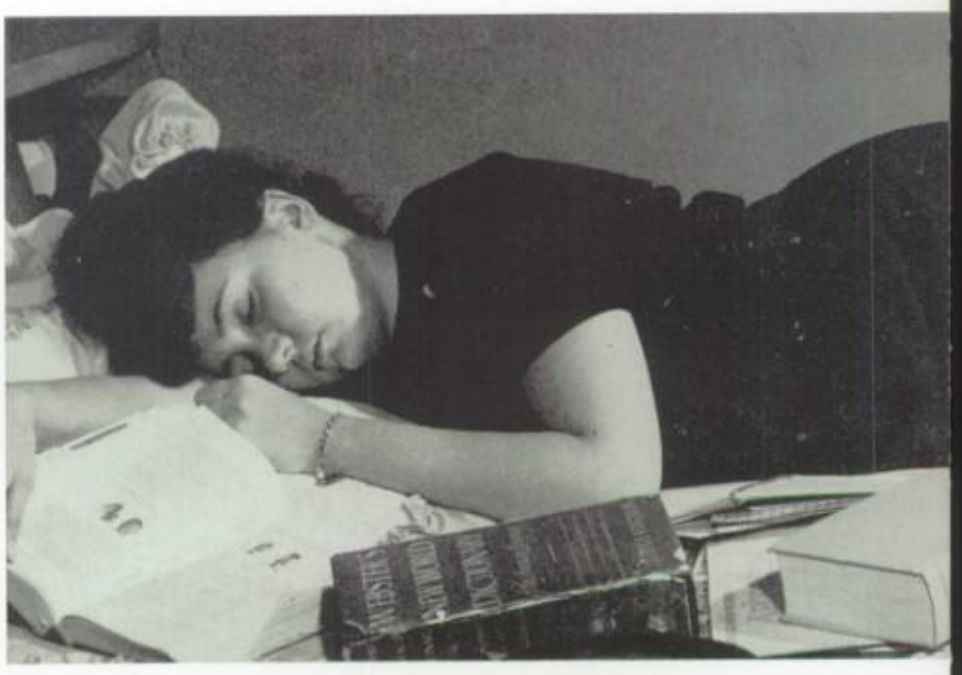
Semester Finals Produce Bookworms

PEACE, quiet, and well-developed study habits help prepare for finals.





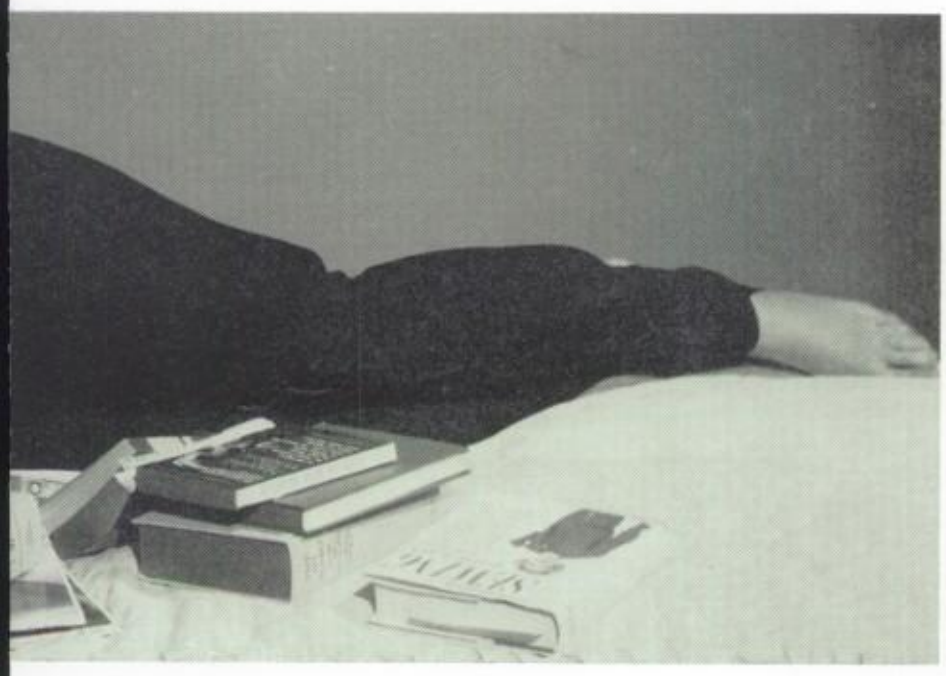
INTENSE concentration induces drowsiness faster than sleeping pills.

AT EXAM time, students sink their teeth into their studies and pencils.

FLOORS provide stretching space when other spots prove too cramped.

Despite their good intentions to start
Study for semester finals early,
Many Provisoites discovered that the dreaded tests
Somehow crept up faster than expected
And frantically barricaded themselves
In secluded corners with notebooks, texts
And candy bars for nourishment.
Although forced to sacrifice "Ben Casey" for
An evening of cramming, they, nevertheless,
Always kept an optimistic eye
On the prospect of a two-day vacation
At the end of the ordeal.

COMFORTABLE study posture includes a relaxed position for long legs.



MEMORIZING mountains of facts often requires the help of fingers.

Students Utilize Facilities After School

Contrary to popular belief, all students
Did not dash for the nearest exit at 3:35.
Many headed for the library
To do homework or to work on term papers.
Others took part in extra-curricular activities,
While some merely loitered at their lockers
To compare notes with friends.
Although athletic teams worked out
In the spacious field house or on the practice field
And clubs found room for their meetings
In various parts of the building,
The casts of the spring all-school play,
The contest play, and the variety show
Had to compete for rehearsal space.
To get all stragglers out of the building by five,
The administration finally resorted
To locking the east doors at 4:30.

LOYAL PROVISOITES turn out to support their team in its battle against Willowbrook.

BELOW-ZERO weather makes waiting for buses a freezing experience.

Winter Weather Wearies Students

All winter snow frustrated the plans of Provisoites.
During Christmas vacation the lack of it
Canceled tobogganing and skiing trips
While January and February accumulations
Taxed the energy of school-bound pedestrians.
With alternate days of snow and slush,
Early March brought an end
To both winter weather and the basketball season.
In tournament play, East defeated West
In their first meeting
And downed Riverside-Brookfield
Before losing to Willowbrook.
Although senior players lost to the faculty
In their annual contest,
The girls redeemed student glory
By defeating a team composed of their gym teachers.

Commercial Phrases Win Popularity

Green, yellow, red, and blue bows distinguished
Freshmen, sophomores, juniors, and seniors
As the week of class competition climaxed
With the sock hop, Transylvania Tromp.
The class of '66 highlighted its first year at East
By capturing the crown for selling the most bows
While the juniors took the booby prize.
"Mother, please! I'd rather do it myself!"
"That makes me mad!" "Oooh, that's corny,"
And other phrases borrowed from commercials
Became popular expressions
As both faculty and students eagerly anticipated
A week of spring vacation.

Cafeteria Inovations Challenge Intelligence

Unhindered by seasonal fever, Provisoites crammed
Occupational conferences and interviews
With representatives from colleges and universities
Into their full spring schedule.
Despite preoccupation with their own affairs,
They took the time to introduce future freshmen
To East at the eighth-grade get-together.
By this time, most students had learned
How to cope with the cafeteria's long milk line
And change-making cash registers,
But the antics of the hard-to-please coke machine,
Which occasionally refused to accept certain coins,
Still baffled its craftiest user.

"Olympiad" Climaxes Senior Social Events

Secretly fearing that someone else might select
An identical gown for the prom,
Senior girls scoured the dress shops,
Searching for outfits that would rival
The classical splendor of "Olympiad" decorations.
Meanwhile, their dates patiently awaited their choices
To order corsages of the proper color
And made arrangements well in advance
To use the family car the night of May 25.

End of Year Brings Preparation for Next

Beginning with spring elections, when others
Voted for their future officers,
Seniors excitedly but sadly watched
Their part in Proviso life come to an end.
After Provi distribution, they roamed the school
With their yearbooks, seeking the autographs
Of friends and teachers for the last time.
Last-minute cramming for semester examinations
Could not drown the joys and sorrows of graduation.
But even while seniors stifled their farewell tears,
Plans for September began taking shape
As Proviso looked forward to another school year.

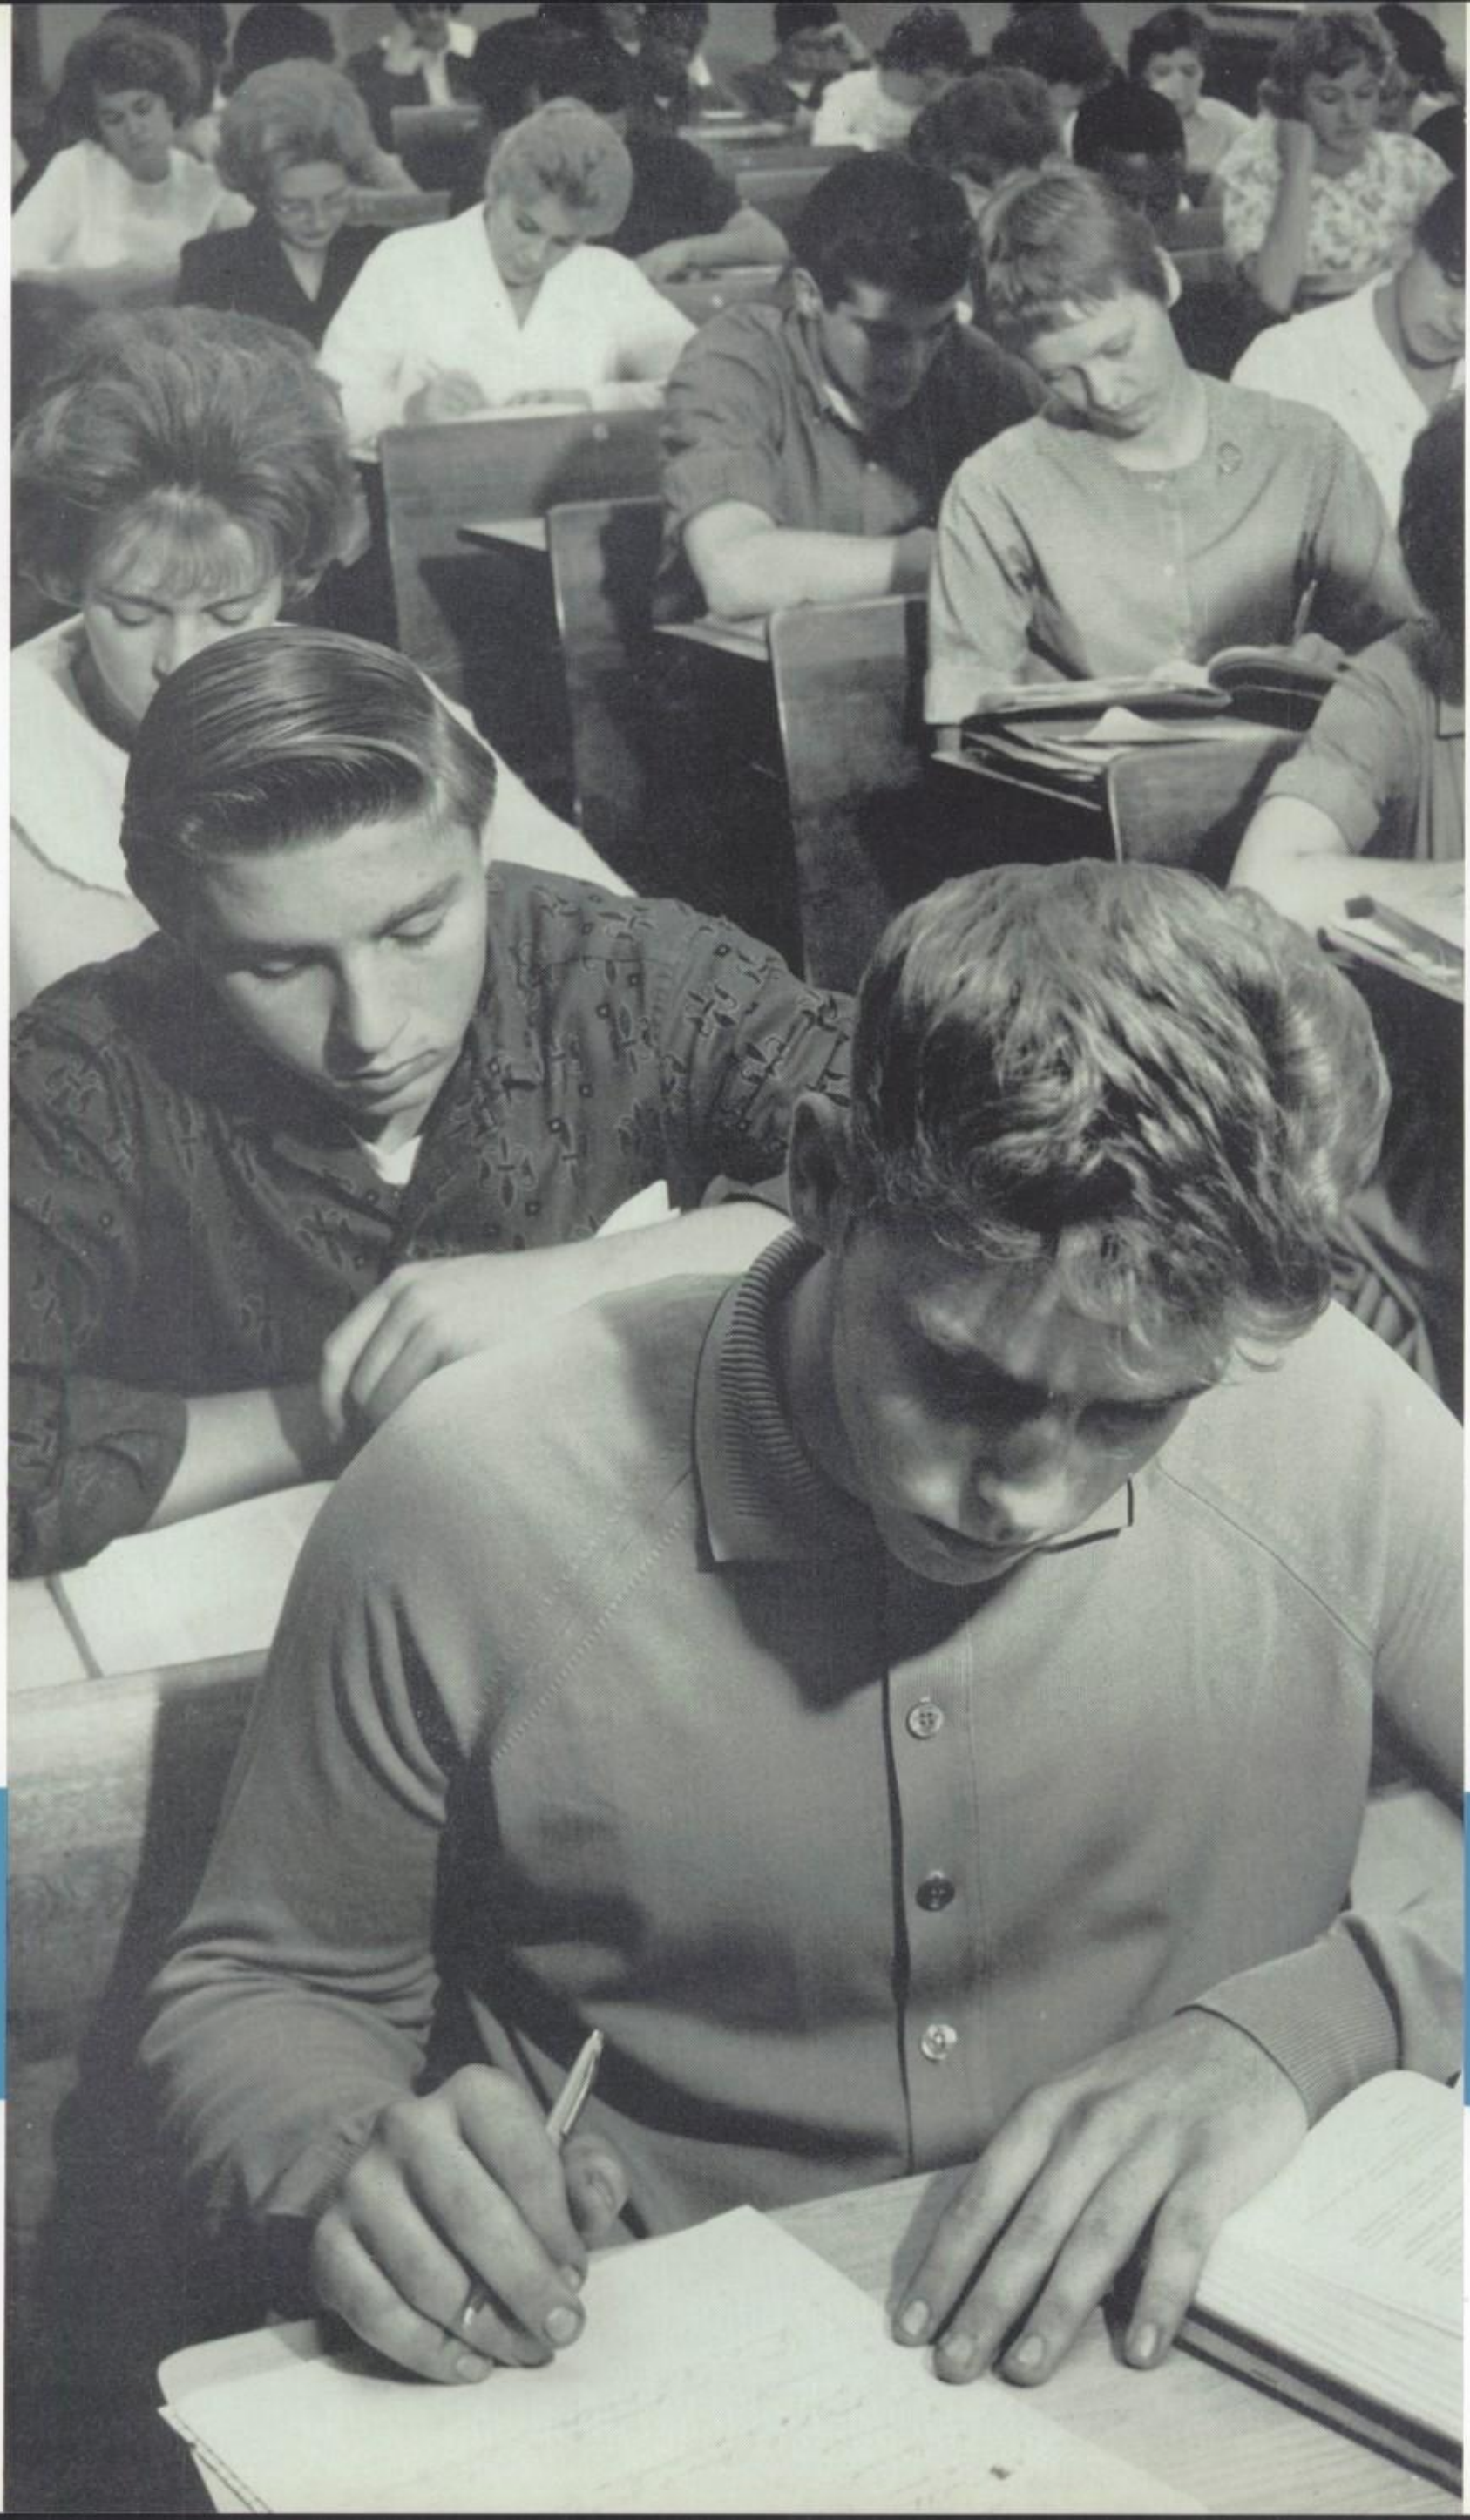
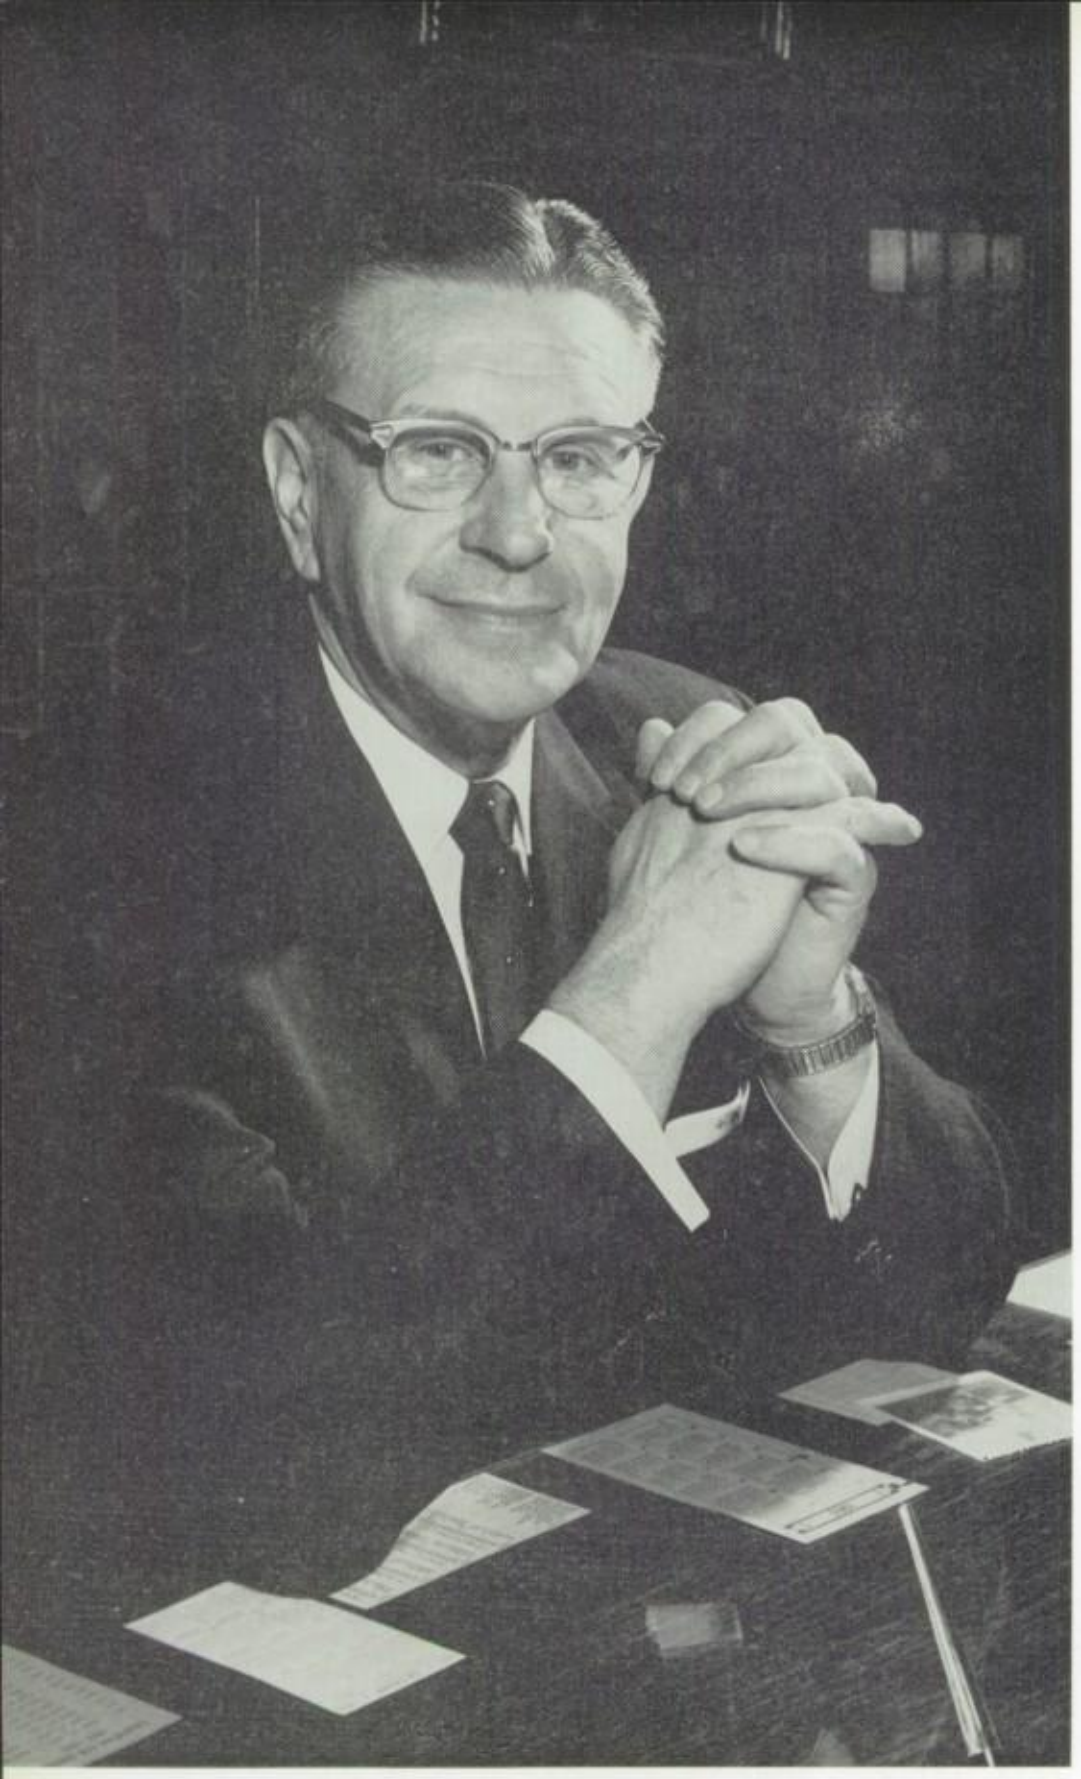
The Academic World





LEADING CITIZEN in Proviso Pete's world, Dr. LeRoy J. Knoeppel strives to encourage teenagers to aim continually above their goals.

East Is East, West Is West By Dr. K's Efforts

After completing construction at West and adding eight classrooms at East, Dr. LeRoy J. Knoeppel, superintendent of Proviso High Schools, intends to supplement the township's educational facilities by initiating a junior college in 1965 or 1966. Emphasizing evening classes for drop-outs who want to earn their diplomas, he seeks to stimulate all students to take full advantage of their opportunities.

Earning his MA from the University of Iowa, Dr. Knoeppel received his PhD at Carthage College where he had obtained his BA. As superintendent, he listed his major accomplishments as the construction of West and Memorial Hall, various renovations at East, and Proviso's participation with surrounding grade schools in the area curriculum program. This permits progressive instruction in mathematics, science, and English from kindergarten through high school.

Although working on such projects as remodeling East's auditorium and modernizing the First Avenue entrances to match those on Madison Street left few free moments for relaxation, Dr. Knoeppel enjoyed reading and attending sporting events. During vacations he escaped Proviso's hectic world by hunting and fishing on his eighty-acre farm in Minnesota.

Mrs. Frieda Zochert, Dr. Knoeppel's secretary, has served Proviso for fifteen years. After she had attended Lewis Institute, she graduated from Bryant and Stratton Secretarial School. Her various duties included keeping correspondence, faculty records, personal appointments, and official files in order.

DR. KNOEPPEL'S right hand, Mrs. Freida Zochert, handles the superintendent's affairs and organizes school records for future reference.

Board of Education Proposes Construction Of Junior College

PRESIDENT FRED MEYER, with the aid of Mrs. Hattie Haupt, business manager, organizes matters for consideration at monthly meeting.

Under President Fred Meyer, the Board of Education proposed construction of a junior college to serve Proviso and five other districts besides planning remodeling at East and completing a wing at West.

After a survey by Dr. Jack Childress of Northwestern University determined the need for an area junior college, the board initiated measures providing for the establishment of such facilities. Although these major projects occupied a large portion of the board's activities, they also handled innumerable minor details to keep both East and West operating efficiently. To cope with this schedule, the board met on the third Tuesday of each month and held extra meetings to consider many special matters.

DR. LOUIS HOOVER, who succeeded Dr. Holt, now in Scottsdale, Arizona, smilingly contemplates his first year as assistant superintendent.

Dr. Hoover Completes First Year As East Principal

Replacing Dr. Charles Holt as Proviso's assistant superintendent and East's principal, Dr. Louis Hoover worked towards improving various courses. Although he considered Proviso's curriculum unusually broad, he initiated plans for useful and attractive classes and activities for the entire student body.

After receiving his BS from Winona State Teachers' College, Dr. Hoover gained an MS from Kansas State Teachers' College and his doctorate from the University of Minnesota. In 1960 he received a Ford Foundation Fellowship to Minnesota where he taught and did research on junior colleges. Before coming to Proviso in September, 1962, Dr. Hoover served as principal of four schools and Assistant Professor of Education at Los Angeles State College.

Outside his official duties, Dr. Hoover relaxed by dancing, playing tennis, and attending sports events. He participated in many community projects.

EAST'S HOMECOMING DANCE, "Injun Summer," provides Dr. and Mrs. Hoover with the opportunity to indulge in their favorite pastime.

Night and Day IBM Helps Assistants Keep East Humming

MISS VIRGINIA TERHUNE, the brain behind office rountine, takes time out to relax during one of the few free moments of her busy day.

Constantly busy with her regular duties of compiling the daily bulletin, helping students with questions about tests and colleges, filling out college application forms, and supervising the work of office personnel, Miss Virginia Terhune, administrative assistant at East, still found time to investigate new developments in education and office work.

This summer she attended a two-week training program on IBM computers, where she especially enjoyed working with a machine capable of processing 3400 program cards in fifteen minutes.

Pursuing her interest in institutions of higher learning, Miss Terhune visited various colleges in Wisconsin to persuade them to send representatives to confer with Proviso students interested in them.

As Director of Continuing Education, Mr. John Widergren directed both evening and summer school classes. Under a new program, drop-outs and students lacking sufficient credits for graduation could take courses during the evening and summer sessions to earn their high school diplomas.

In addition to supervising Proviso's supplementary education program, Mr. Widergren also released information about school activities to newspapers, prepared the bulletin "Your High School Reports," and helped students plan to further their education.

After receiving his B.A. from Beloit college, Mr. Widergren obtained his M.A. from the University of Iowa. In spite of his busy schedule, he still found time to study for his Ed.D. at Wyoming University.

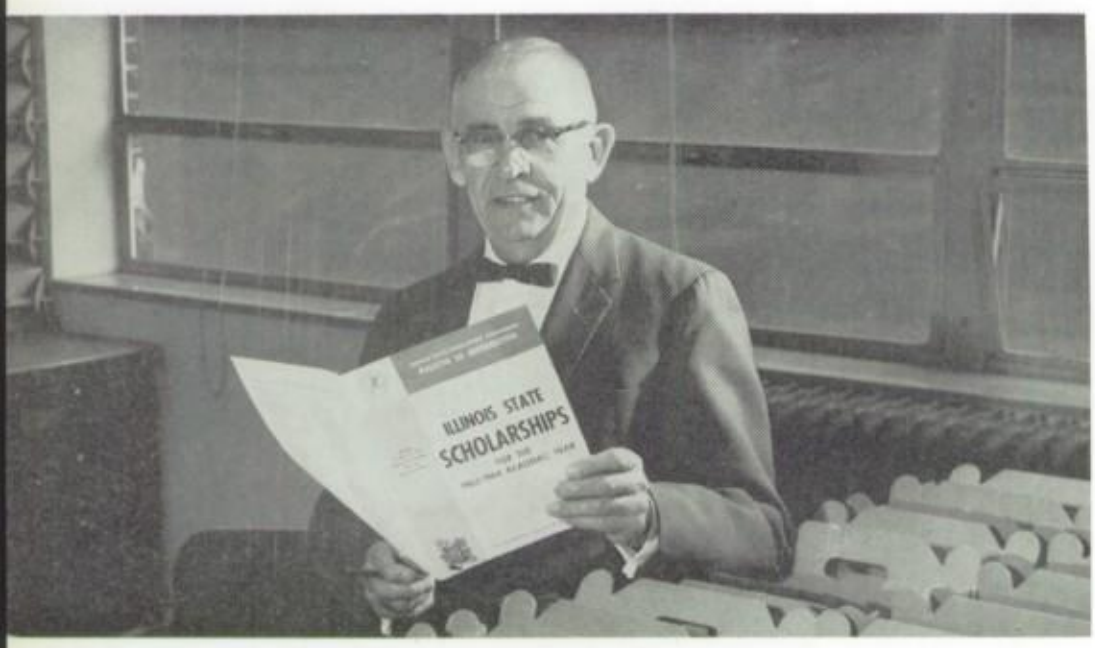
JACK-OF-ALL-TRADES, Mr. John Widergren pauses from his duties of publicizing school events, coordinating summer and evening schools.

MAIN OFFICE SECRETARIES—Mrs. Beatrice Puryear, secretary for eligibil'ties and transfer student records; Mrs. Elvera Pearson, secretary to Miss Terhune; Mrs. Winifred Jones, secretary to Dr. Hoover; Mrs. Donna Bourbonnais, IBM key punch operator; Mrs. Joan Keating, in charge of supplies and assistant IBM punch key operator; Mrs. Mildred Rezabek, office coordinator.



TESTING COORDINATOR, Mr. Edward Bos, smiles as he awaits return of materials from the homeroom teachers after two days of testing.

CHECKING THE MORNING BULLETIN for the day's scheduled activities, Dr. Remley pauses before beginning his duties as Dean of Students.

Coordinator, Dean Test and Retest, Advise and Counsel

As Director of Testing for Proviso High Schools, Mr. Edward Bos's many duties included selecting and administering internal and external testing programs at both East and West. Chosen and interpreted by Proviso teachers, internal tests included the Iowa Test of Educational Development and the School and College Ability Test. External tests, such as the ACT, CEEB, and PSAT, helped colleges select students.

Having served Proviso East as Dean of Students for seven years, Dr. Leslie Remley supervised all extra-curricular activities and held daily conferences with students, parents, and teachers. He received his BA from Wabash College and his doctorate from the University of Iowa. Prior to becoming dean, Dr. Remley served as director of athletics.

Dr. Remley left Proviso at the end of the first semester to accept the athletic directorship at his alma mater. The students and faculty will miss him.

Secretaries Balance Accounts, Check Student Attendance

Experienced hands and trained minds of the main office secretaries kept the office's busy routine flowing skillfully and efficiently. Their activities included scheduling school activities, taking telephone messages, compiling the daily bulletin, and handling enrollment cards and transfer slips.

After the addition of a new bookkeeping machine to their office, the business office secretaries studied new methods as well as fulfilled their regular duties of typing, filing, and writing checks. Handling activity fees, employees' payrolls, government reports, requisitions, school mail, and the purchase of supplies completed their busy schedule.

Serving the various departments, the secretarial pool performed such duties as mimeographing tests and supplementary materials and grading IBM examinations. Attendance secretaries handled phone calls from parents of absent students and issued admittance slips. Although the English, library, physical education, and counseling departments employed their own secretaries, other departments submitted their assignments to the combined secretarial pool.

Cafeteria Staff Maintenance Men Balance Diets, Brooms

BALANCING MENUS, Mrs. Dorothy Accardi, cafeteria manager and dietician, plans meals which cater to the unusual tastes of students.

CARRYING TRAYS of pumpkin pie and more milk to Proviso students, Mrs. Harnish and Mrs. Youngsteadt replenish depleted dessert sections.

Perplexed by the change machine for two lunch lines, hungry Provisoites had difficulty this year balancing books and trays while they reached for change. Lunch period was still the most popular period of the day with pizzas and hamburgers and fries still the favorites. Cafeteria women kept busy satisfying the four lines for each of the periods.

Ten and one-half miles of hallways kept two crews of janitors busy. The day crew kept Proviso East light, warm, and clean all the year around. Cutting lawns, trimming shrubbery, washing windows, raking leaves, shoveling snow—keeping the exterior of the school clean was no small task. The matrons provided a towel service for physical education classes. Maintenance also assisted with the stage lighting.

CAFETERIA STAFF—FRONT ROW: Mrs. Marie Bailey, Mrs. Clara Henning, Mrs. Hanna Gallagher, Mrs. Rose Stickel, Mrs. Rose Marie Bergantino, Mrs. Mary Hanna, Mrs. Iola Reek, and Mrs. Frances Blasius. Faculty Knows A Teacher's Work Is Never Done

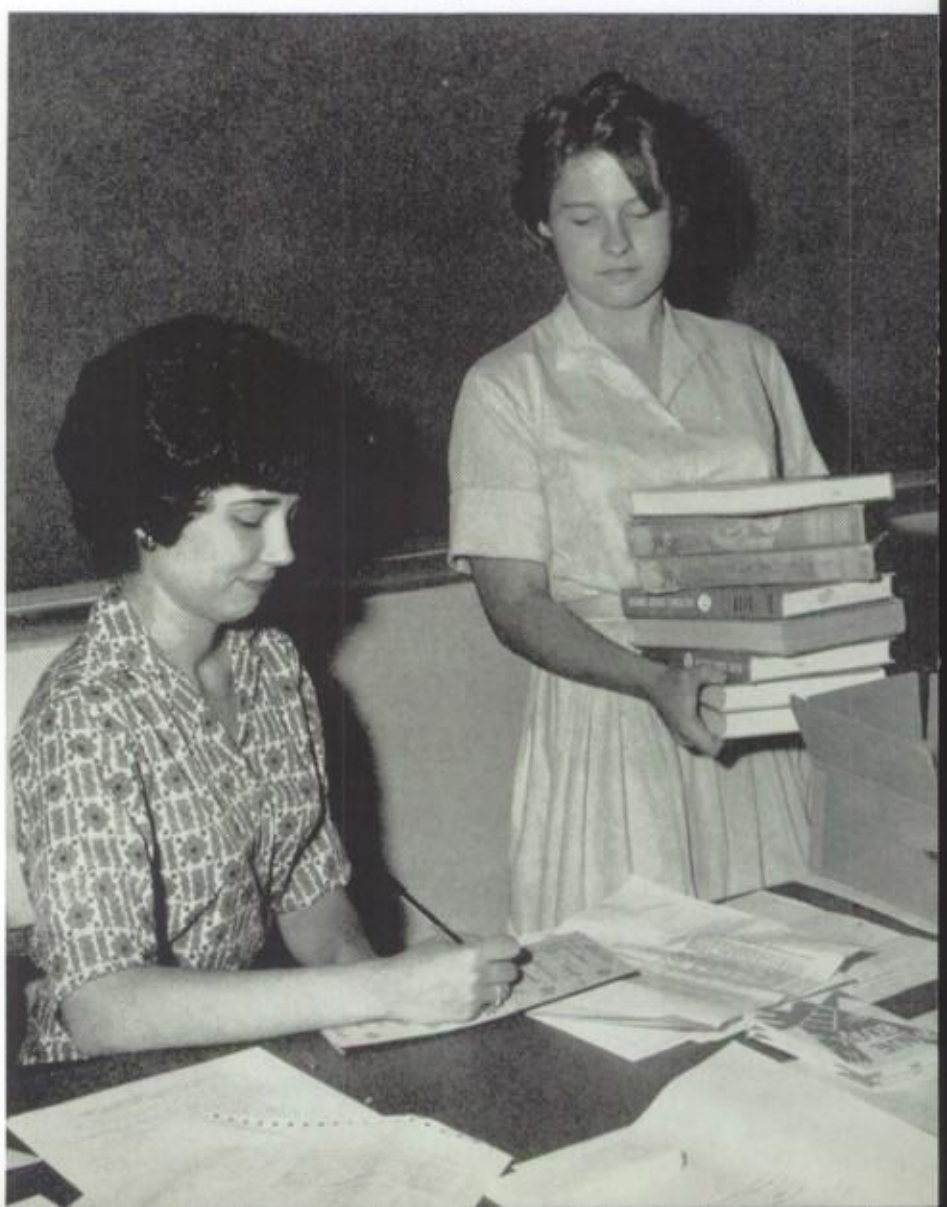
DR. KNOEPPEL and Miss Terhune supply coffee and cups to waiting teachers as faculty members welcome Dr. Hoover on first day at East.

"Ooooh, term papers!" The groan became familiar to teachers and students alike. Faculty members had schedules as busy as those of their students. They went to meetings, teas, dinners, and pot lucks, besides correcting the many papers assigned to their students. They arrived earlier and left much later than most of their pupils. They had to study for the next day's lesson and read book reports, term papers, themes, and more book reports.

The 176 faculty members included 20 teachers and a principal new to the district. One teacher returned from abroad and three transferred from West.

IN PREPARATION FOR the beginning of the new school year, Mr. Dziedzic gathers necessary materials from a main office secretary.

AN AUDIBLE GROAN accompanies receipt of another book. Mrs. Smith makes sure her freshman students have plenty of books their first day.



MR. CORGAN FINDS teas "celebrating the first day of school" enjoyable as surrounded by women teachers, he discusses his summer.

SECOND-SEMESTER ADDITIONS to the faculty, Miss Kay Henderson and Miss Mary True learn about activities at East from the 1962 Provi.

With the second semester changes came to Proviso. Mr. Edward Todd of the English Department transferred to West, while Miss Kay Henderson arrived from college to take over his classes. Mrs. Nancy Kort, who taught at West first semester, replaced Miss June VanWagner who took a leave of absence.

The new dialing system added confusion as faculty members grew accustomed to new numbers.

Team teaching, which began in 1961, continued in public speaking, English IV, creative writing, and contemporary history. Math, type, and science classes used overhead projectors while English and chemsitry classes made use of program studies.

Individual teachers also continued their busy schedule of advising and sponsoring; chaperoning; coaching; directing the band, orchestra, and plays; serving on various professional groups; and teaching.

Highlighting the year's social events, the faculty board dinner honored three teachers with twenty-five years of service to Proviso. Miss Ellendore Lampton, Miss Virginia Terhune, and Mr. A. E. Judd each received gold watches. The final tea of the year was held on June 3. It celebrated the conclusion of classes and honored retiring faculty members.

RELIEVED THAT the day has finally ended, Miss Horsky and Miss Unakis discuss problems which plague English teachers before leaving.

AFTER CHECKING in books—class, grade, library—keys and locks, teachers rest from ordeal and wait eagerly for their reward—checks.

New Books Bring New Look To English Classes

What light through yonder window breaks? It is a student burning the midnight oil to finish assignments in the English department's revised program.

This year college preparatory classes underwent a nine-week composition unit and intensive study of entire works of Chaucer, Shakespeare, and Dickens rather than superficial treatments of many authors.

Both freshmen and sophomores acquired new grammar texts while second year students also participated with seniors in up-to-date tests by Purdue.

So that students may obtain their own copies of the works they study, the department increased the use of paperbacks, adding 300 new editions to its library. A four-volume anthology of poetry, drama, short stories, and nonfiction permitted freshmen honor classes to experiment with this technique.

Taking advantage of the Lyric Opera Company's offer, advanced students attended an opera seminar and a dress rehearsal of Donizetti's Elixir of Love.

Library Explodes, Takes Over English Classrooms

This year the "room of silent learnin'" literally could no longer contain itself. To accommodate nearly three thousand new books, East's library annexed the former English office and room 278. Room 278 now houses faculty and curriculum reading material as well as that for vocational nursing.

When Mr. Charles DeYoung, head of the department, attended the meeting of the Illinois Library Association at Springfield, he was named secretary of the association. Miss Alice Gustafson joined East's staff this year as full-time librarian.

The listening lab of the language department added three albums of English recording for all students who discover that English is Greek to them.

In keeping with the expansion program, many internal improvements aided avid knowledge-seekers. Reference books moved to a rear-library office, leaving in their place five years' accumulation of magazines for browsers. Paperbacks—nearly two hundred of them—formed a so-convenient circulating library.

Spanish Enrollment Surpasses Others With 571 Students

"Zdrahstvuyte!" This unusual greeting mingled with calls of Bonjour!, Buenos dias!, and other forms of "hello" as Proviso's 1285 language students practiced with their friends. In addition to using this informal method of learning, beginning students found help in a large number of tapes, records, and films. While in class, third-year and fourth-year students avoided speaking English.

The addition of three new faculty members to the department increased the number of language teachers to eleven. With the initiation of Russian IV, Proviso offered four years of five foreign languages.

Understand Past To Know Present To Foresee Future

Recognizing the importance of knowing the past to understand current problems, East's social studies department offered seven history courses ranging from world history to studies of specific areas such as Central and South America and the Far East.

Using the interdisciplinary approach and team teaching system, the contemporary history class traced the course of Western civilization, emphasizing the development of the scientific method.

Besides preparing students for the government examination, United States history, a requirement for graduation, sought to encourage them to live up to their potential as American citizens.

While sociology and psychology students studied human behavior by trying to discover what made teachers tick, economic and world geography classes explored the challenges presented to today's youth by this century's ever-changing political situation.

New Math Studies Now Become Old Stuff

Through courses ranging from calculus to math fundamentals, the mathematics department encouraged its 1900 students to approach all problems from the local aspect. This year, new textbooks for Math I, Algebra II and geometry helped convey the concept of mathematics as an integral part of modern life.

Following the increased emphasis on concrete subject matter, seniors completed a four-year cycle of the new math studies, started in their freshman year. For the first time, calculus students carried only one mathematics course because they had previously taken trigonometry and college algebra as part of an accelerated Algebra II curriculum in their junior year. Select juniors participated in the program this year.

This spring, advanced students represented Proviso East in the state-wide mathematics contest.

Smallest Department Produces Biggest Show

Although the art department was the smallest in the school, it offered a variety of courses to suit students' particular interests and abilities.

This year the department enrolled 286 students in beginning and advanced art, commercial art, crafts, painting, and humanities.

Since art consists of two important factors, basic learning and individual style coupled with fresh ideas, Art I classes emphasized the fundamentals of line, form, color, and design, while second-year students worked toward developing a personal style.

Students in crafts classes worked with wire, yarn, clay, copper, and various other materials to create useful as well as ornamental objects. The necessity for knowing the basic techniques of art made Art I a prerequisite for crafts.

Painting and commercial art focused more exclusively on particular skills. While commercial art trained the advanced student for a career in that field, painting taught the methods of using water color, tempera, and oils.

Humanities offered the history of art to students who wished to supplement actual practice as well as to those who "couldn't draw a straight line."

The department displayed its best works at national contests and the Spring Student Art Exhibit.

To Future Scientists

Amply armed with microscopes, Bunsen burners, and electrical paraphernalia, East's science department guided students through simple experiments and complicated projects in General Science, Biology I and II, chemistry, physics, and geology.

Continuing its accelerated program, the department allowed freshmen exhibiting special ability to substitute Biology I for General Science, a required first-year course, while seniors who had previously taken Biology I, chemistry, and physics tackled college-level problems in senior science.

This year the department's main objectives consisted of equipping the new chemistry laboratory in Room 203 and promoting interest in the Science Club.

Business Department Aids College Prep, Commercial Students

To make possible specialized training in calculation, the business education department added new calculating machines 25 years ago. Today the department contains many types of office machines ranging from typewriters to dictaphones to prepare Provisoites for business and clerical positions.

Business courses not only trained vocational students but also provided opportunities for those who plan to attend college to study typing, stenography, and other subjects helpful to them.

Commercial courses concentrated on developing technical skills for office work while stressing the importance of a successful job attitude.

Supplementing classes with part-time employment, vocational retailing provided on-the-job experience.

Training Plan Lets Students Earn While They Learn

Preparing 862 Proviso students for future jobs in all phases of industry compelled East's Industrial Arts department to keep abreast of new developments.

This year the print shop added an off-set press while a new vertical mill supplemented metals working equipment. Aided by overhead projectors, student covered a year of mechanical drawing in one semester of summer-school work.

The addition of a diversified occupations course provided opportunities for students to attend school part time while gaining work experience in their chosen fields. After three hours of classes daily, participants in this program worked for local firms at established apprentice wage scales.

Under this plan Provisoites performed the duties of beauty operators, chemical mixers, laboratory assistants, and photographers. They also found employment as draftsmen, machinists, and electricians.

A new addition to the department staff, Mrs. Margaret Wischer, increased the number of teachers to six. These teachers presided over 500 students seeking to acquire practical homemaking skills.

Courses offered for the entire year included Foods I which covered the selection and preparation of foods and Foods II which emphasized planning the more difficult dishes. Arranged by second-year students, the annual Christmas open house invited each faculty member to taste various holiday tidbits.

Cothing I and II, also full-year courses, taught girls construction of garments, purchasing standards for ready-made clothes, and proper clothing care.

Home planning, home decoration, and family living classes stressed daily living while the department planned a special course for the college-bound girls.

Rehearsing, Learning, Practicing Produce Perfection

Rehearsals, more rehearsals, and still more rehearsals typified behind-the-scene activities as music groups prepared for their several annual concerts. In addition to stage performances, the band provided entertainment at football games and assemblies.

In February the band, choir, and orchestra participated in a joint concert, highlighting the year.

Symphonies, operas, musical shows, and contemporary jazz received close scrutiny in music appreciation classes. In the two-year course, students learned to consider musical structure a changeable art and to recognize the patterns of such masters as Bach, Beethoven, Brahms, and Duke Ellington.

The orchestra, band, choir, and choruses provided East students with the opportunity to gain comprehensive experience by performing as part of large groups while instrumental and vocal ensembles furnished advanced musical training for smaller numbers.

Parents at School, Counselors Help Solve Numerous Problems

Serving as parents away from home, East's counselors continually helped solve problems ranging from forgotten lunch money to choice of career.

To understand individuals better, each counselor remained with one group of students during their entire four years in high school. In addition to conducting weekly classes, counselors encouraged students to arrange for special appointments to discuss personal problems and post-graduation plans.

Twice during the school year counselors supervised enrollment, helping the student choose a well-balanced curriculum based on his particilar interests.

By channeling information on tests, colleges, and vocational opportunities, counselors guided students through the confusing process of planning the future.

The Active World

Choir Performs Lenten Music At Chicago Temple

As the bell rang at the beginning of the third period, the 95 members of Proviso East's top choral organization, the choir, raced to their seats with music in hand as Mr. Robert Davis called for order.

All year the choir practiced hard, perfecting many musical numbers for their three major concerts, the traditional Christmas Concert which included an original number, "Christmas Contemporary," by Eugene Palumbo, a combined choir and orchestra concert in February, and a festive spring concert.

For the first time this year, the choir sang religious selections at the Chicago Temple.

Specially-selected members of the choir also sang in one of the four ensembles which performed in school programs and for civic groups as well as in the choral concerts. These groups also represented Proviso East in the Illinois State Music Contest.

Girls' Choruses Join To Produce Antiphonal Effects

Three times each week Memorial Hall rang with song to the tune of nearly three hundred girls. Under the direction of Mr. Royce DeVick, these music devotees covered such subjects as sight-reading, proper breathing, musical phrasing, and choral intonation.

They followed a routine of progressive exercising to prepare them for participation in their three main musical events of the school year – the Christmas, Mid-Winter, and Spring Concerts.

Led by Mr. DeVick, representatives of all choruses joined to form two antiphonal choirs, with one group on stage and the other singing from the balcony.

East's Music Men Combine With Choir To Present Concert

Strands of music from "Music Man" to Ravel made up the folios of the forty-seven members of the Concert Orchestra in September as they started preparing for the year ahead. Starting in October with the annual potluck, the orchestra presented its winter, spring, and combined Orchestra-Choir concerts.

As outside activities, several students participated in district solo and ensemble contests and performed at community functions. Band Directs Journey to "Far Away Places"

Strains of music sounded through the corridors each day at Memorial Hall as the Concert Band practiced for various appearances on occasions such as the football games, concerts, and student assemblies. Mr. J. Irving Tallmadge directed the 72 member band in its performances at Proviso.

During the year, 12 majorettes who were sponsored by Mrs. Kay Fulton added glamour to the performances of the band with striking dances.

After a rainy start, the band, aided by the majorettes, moved quickly through appropriate routines for the home football games this fall.

The band took its audience to "Far Away Places" at its first concert in January. The spectators heard national anthems from remote countries such as Zanzibar and Cambodia. Bruce Gordon and John Davis gained experience as musicians by directing the band in music from El Salvador and Jericho.

The concert in March featured the "Old Favorites." Among these were Strauss Waltzes and "Maleguena."

Proviso Thespians Play Host to Regional Conference

National Thespian Society, an honorary organization, promoted student interest in theatrical arts. To earn membership, students had to accumulate ten points by taking part in school plays or by working on the various play committees.

Upholding their motto, "Act well your part, there all the honor lies," Troupe 2090, sponsored by Miss Elizabeth Little and Mr. William Waack, presented the two all-school plays and the contest play, a cutting from The Miracle Worker. At their monthly meetings, active and apprentice members performed cuttings as well as original monologues and skits.

East's Thespians also hosted more than thirty other troupes at the regional conference on March 23. Dr. Charles McGau, author of Acting is Believing, spoke on "High School Actors and Acting Techniques."

Operating East's school store as a profit-making enterprise and selling refreshments at home basketball games permitted members of Future Business Leaders of America to study aspects of merchandising.

At their Tuesday meetings, the board planned the week's activities as well as arranged major social events such as the potluck. On this occasion, FBLA installed new officers and honored out-going leaders. Charities often received profits from FBLA dances while eighth-grade and freshman receptions provided opportunities for new Provisoites to meet the board.

To extend their contacts with the business world, members traveled to DeKalb and Springfield and heard business representatives speak during meetings.

FTA Organization Celebrates Two Anniversaries

This year members of the Booker T. Washington Chapter of the Future Teachers of America joined with schools in all parts of the country in celebrating the twenty-fifth anniversary of the beginning of the national FTA movement. East's chapter marked its fourteenth year as an organization at Proviso, starting in 1948 under the guidance of Mrs. Carl Bergstrom and Mr. John Hinds.

FTA not only encouraged outstanding students to become teachers, but also presented information on the teaching profession. Under the direction of Mrs. Schockley and Mr. Hinds, FTA'ers conducted monthly business meetings and planned two social offairs.

In addition to student discussions, the meetings included films and panel discussions by elementary and high school teachers on teaching as a career.

At the annual Christmas Tea, the members of FTA had the opportunity to view slides of the Holy Land.

Pages Shuffle Books; PTA Arranges Conference Nights

Locating elusive books and magazines, operating tape recorders, delivering study hall slips, writing overdue notices, and filing catalog cards comprised the basic duties of the library page. In addition to holding regular XO meetings, pages carried out plans for a Christmas party and a spring banquet. In this way, they combined work with social events.

East's Parent-Teacher Association provided opportunities for parents to meet teachers and to become better acquainted with their child's course of study. On conference nights, both teachers and parents gained greater insight into students' abilities.

The PTA also sponsored projects such as providing needy Proviso students with glasses, lunch money, and transportation expenses from the welfare fund.

PTA BOARD—SEATED: Mr. Orville TeBockhorst, Mrs. Robert Pruitt, Mrs. William Hendrick, and Mr. A. L. Fry. STANDING: Mr. Raymond Hofer, Mr. Arthur Shearburn, Mrs. George Holian, Mr. Joseph Nelson, Mrs. Carl Loyd, Dr. Louis Hoover, Miss Mary Wheeler, and Mr. S. O. Storby.

COMPLEX EQUIPMENT such as this enlarger helps East's camera enthusiasts produce finished pictures while developing photographic skills.

"So I shot her—just like that!" A passer-by might have heard this sentence coming from room 125. The eavesdropper should not have panicked since the speaker, one of East's Lensmen, probably referred to his efforts to capture a difficult subject on black-and-white or color film or on color slides, the favorite media of camera-clubbers.

With a mutual interest in photography, Mr. Fred Keil and his twenty Lensmen entered their favorite photos in monthly contests. Those judged best according to tone, clarity, imagination, and general audience appeal won prize ribbons.

To provide material for these contests, Lensmen visited Morton Arboretum in October, capturing the scenery at its most colorful time. A portrait session in February with student models gave members a chance to experiment with lighting and closeup shots.

Hoping to become better judges of what constitutes good photography, several members attended the annual slide show given by the Chicago Stereo Camera Club and Lighthouse for the Blind. There they viewed nearly 200 top, prize-winning slides and learned basic concepts of good composition.

After viewing Ansco and Kodak slide programs, members acquired further photographic experience by developing film in their newly-organized darkroom.

SEEKING INTERESTING ANGLES, Mr. Kyle helps a Camera Club member focus on his subject at one of the Lensmen's portrait sessions.

STANDING: Donna Duvall, Susan Akkeron, Linda Smith, Diane Waltzek, Kathleen Kaapke, Gail Krueger, Rosemary Badame, Phyllis Mueller, Annette Timpanaro, and Roberta Murphy.

The dolphins and oysters inhabiting the girls' pool were not creatures of the deep but merely intricate maneuvers performed by members of Nekton, Proviso East's synchronized swim club.

Following the organization's objectives of promoting good sportsmanship, developing acquatic skills, and furthering interests in acquatic art, the 40 girls in Nekton practiced Tuesdays after school and added extra sessions to prepare for their swim show.

With the assistance of boy swimmers, Nekton produced its spring aquatic show, based on the theme "Fairy Tales." Mrs. Bette Kucera, the club's sponsor, helped members prepare their musical numbers.

Each spring and fall, members held weekly training sessions for girls with a 3.0 or better grade average who wished to join the organization. At the end of this period, tests on aquatic skills and basic ballet maneuvers and personal interviews selected new members from the group of applicants.

All girls who participated in the water show and had held a year's membership received a sterling silver necklace with a diver-shaped pendant. Trips to Northwestern and DePaul supplemented activities.

NEKTON OFFICERS—Jane Ann Merydith, Donna Nonneman, Stephenie Sarossy, and Jean Lynch.

Future Florence Nightingales Comfort Children With Toys

Girls interested in learning to help humanity through various fields of medicine met as Proviso's chapter of Future Nurses of America the first Monday of every month under the sponsorship of school nurses, Mrs. Ethel Halloran and Mrs. Florence Akers.

At these meetings, guest speakers from the medical profession and related areas and films from the science department covered such pertinent subjects as surgery and public health. Supplementing these sessions, members frequently visited local hospitals and other public institutions. Parents often accompanied small groups on such expeditions.

For FNA members, Christmas provided more than the opportunity to hold their annual party. As part of their tradition of service to the underprivileged, the girls made dolls and other small toys for the residents of nearby Hephzebab Children's Home.

Chess, Science Clubs Make Queens of Pawns

Under the general direction of Mr. Joseph Pasternock, Proviso East Science Club furthered student interest in careers and experimentation in science.

This year Mrs. Emily Carter took charge of reorganizing the biology division while Mr. Hal Isley and Mr. Edison Kockenderfer set out to make the physics and chemistry sections known.

During Christmas vacation, five members of the club attended lectures on the outstanding scientists.

"Excitement mounted as the knight came in for the kill . . ." Although this sounds like a "whodunit," it typifies the comments made by members of Proviso East's Chess Club each week as they rehashed details of their five autumn matches. Scoring three victories over Proviso West and one over Oak Park-River Forest, the club met its only defeat in Riverside-Brookfield. Mr. Charles DeYoung and Mr. Thomas Tucker, club sponsors, kept operations running smoothly.

Cine'ers Gain Knowledge Through Experience

CINE CLUB OFFICERS, James Franzen, Ralph DeRaimo, Edward Meehan, James Smith, and Michael Hienz prepare projectors for school.

Following the latest developments in electronics, the 50 Cine Club members served Proviso East by operating all types of audio-visual equipment.

In addition to showing movies, they learned to handle tape recorders, turn tables, and opaque and film strip projectors. The boys also assumed responsibility for the condition of the machines, cleaned and spliced films, and ran general errands.

The club operated on a point system which motivated the members to participate in various activities. The boys earned major and minor letters and gold service bars by acquiring points.

Mr. C. W. Bills, Cine Club sponsor since 1943, helped the organization win state-wide recognition.

Ushers, Supervisors Guide, Direct Audiences

Ushers' Club members dressed in white blouses and blue skirts presented a familiar sight to students and parents as they distributed programs for plays and concerts and directed lost visitors on PTA nights. In addition to serving the school, the group's activities ranged from a picnic at Miller Meadows and a winter dance to its annual installation ceremony.

Avoiding confusion and chaos in the auditorium, the Assembly Supervisors stood by the doors ready to guide lost students to their seats. Sponsored by Mr. Otto Bolt, the 60 boys – 15 of each rank – served as traffic regulators at assemblies for their particular class. Selected as freshmen, the boys also helped Student Council direct the homecoming parade.

Chairmen, Rovers Play Teacher In Co-op Study Halls

More than 1300 Provisoites daily proved the effectiveness of student government without faculty supervision. These students, selected on the basis of integrity, grade average, and teacher recommendations, tackled homework in co-op study halls presided over by student chairmen.

Miss Ruth Schmitt, co-op's new sponsor, kept track of rovers who checked on individual study halls, using their yellow badges to evade monitors.

Chartered in 1947, co-ops completed their sixteenth year of existence. The charter provided for a board of three officers, a chairman appointed by the board for each study hall, and rovers to connect the wide-spread network. The president of the board represented co-ops on the Student Council Cabinet.

League's Officers, Board Plan Full Schedule

Guided by five officers and twelve other board members, Girls' League members romped their way through a myriad of activities.

Good ghosts and goblins collected canned goods for Halloween. Soon after, gals and their guys — in this case, fathers — frolicked at "Pistol-Packing Papas" as Dad-Daughter Date Night got under way.

The group's teas included the Frosh Tea, Soph Mom-Daughter Tea, Junior Pal Party, and Chocolate Chat.

Members had difficulty deciding who enjoyed the Doll Project more — the tots who received the toys or the teens who bought and named them!

Bow Week this year climaxed with a "Transylvania Tromp," where trompers relaxed after a week of hectic bow-buying and class rivalry.

Chosen by GL officers and sponsor, white-clad Big Sisters aided frosh in finding elusive rooms during the first week of school. They showed new students around the layrinth of halls all through the year.

Steering the girls through all these events, Mrs. Ruth Collins served as sponsor for this organization which seeks to aid East's girls in a four-fold manner — physically, mentally, socially, and spiritually.

Key Club members lived up to their purpose of serving school and community by helping the Maywood Kiwanians sell peanuts in the fall. Christmas brought a clothing and canned food drive to help the Maywood Welfare Agency spread good will to needy families.

Fulfilling their duties to the school, Key Clubbers served at the "Dad-Daughter Date Night" and the NHS banquet. They also provided entertainment for various organizations' functions.

Working long hours after school and far into the night, Key Clubbers succeeded in defeating all other challengers for the third straight year in the homecoming float contest. This year's entry showed "Charlie Brown" "Raking Up the Mustangs" as "Snoopy" perched typically on his doghouse to watch.

To earn money for their expenses, Key Clubbers sold refreshments at football games. They received a share of the profits for their work and derived other funds from their help in the peanut sale.

Key Club presented its annual abstract dance in April. Dressed in "anything," students danced among zany decorations provided by murals submitted from the different organizations in school.

Beginning the year's tasks early, Key Club president Allen TeBockhorst, and vice-president George Lange travelled to the national convention in June at Long Beach, California. There they met with Key Club officers from all over the country. From them they gained several new ideas for projects.

Student Government Sparks Spirit With Homecoming Queen

PUBLICITY CHAIRMAN Jacquie Durand asks Noreen Boersma's advice while decorating Student Council window to publicize Homecoming.

As the overall student government body, Student Council promoted participation in all-school projects and social events. This year it sponsored the election of East's first homecoming queen as well as the dance, "Injun Summer," and other festivities.

At Thanksgiving, Student Council collected $625 for Rankin Cove School in Tennessee, which Provisoites have helped since 1948, and gathered usable clothes for Cove students during the Christmas drive.

In February the annual Valentine Dance provided the opportunity for students to recover from semester exams among pink and white "Lollipops and Roses."

Student Council's 14 committees directed all East's activities. To promote school spirit, members sold Proviso Pete buttons. The Scholarship and Awards Committee presented bronze, silver, and gold medals to students earning the required number of seals.

During XO periods, homeroom representatives planned events and then reported on the discussion.

At the Student Council banquet in May, new officers and cabinet members assumed their positions.

'You Goofed!' Becomes Plague Of Student Monitors

"Do you have a pass?" Repeating this question many times a day, student monitors kept Proviso's corridors free of unauthorized traffic. Chosen on the basis of grade average and teacher recommendations, these students served the school by acting as guides for visitors and ushers at PTA meetings.

Among the season's social events, the annual monitor dance in March highlighted the year as monitors managed to forget about hall passes for the evening.

NHS Inductees Light Candles, Symbols Of Attainment

Proviso's chapter of the National Honor Society inducted seventy seniors into its ranks on October 24, 1962. After hosting a banquet in the cafeteria for parents and guests, new members entertained in the auditorium before the installation ceremony.

Pledging to uphold the society's ideals of service, character, leadership, and scholarship, inductees received the flame of membership from parents who had earned this status at their high schools.

Addresses by Dr. Knoeppel, Dr. Hoover, and Mrs. Victor Johansson followed the installation.

Under the direction of East's NHS sponsor Miss Ruth Schmitt, the executive committee, composed of Carl Johansson, John Reykjalin, and Cynthia Sybilla, planned the banquet and the display in the library.

To become eligible for membership, seniors must rank in the upper twelve per cent of their class and receive high ratings on score cards filled out by their teachers. NHS helped members win scholarships and gain admittance to colleges and universities.

Racket Squad Members Cheer for Lettermen

When participants in athletic activities sprained ankles, who provided bandages or splints? Who hosted at all eight of the home basketball games? Who sponsored the annual Junior-Senior and Senior-Faculty clashes on the basketball court?

Through these activities, East's 40 Major and 27 Minor Lettermen promoted interest in sportsmanship.

Whenever cheerleaders asked for vocal support for Proviso teams, Racket Squad members responded with shouts of encouragement. To improve school spirit, they also made decorations for the stadium and fieldhouse and painted signs for buses for away games.

For the tournament games, members sold Pirate booster buttons with pictures of the basketball team.

Blue Book -- Freshman Answering Service

Respect and reverence describe the treatment received by the first book given to freshmen — the Blue Book. During the year, frosh and upperclass transfer students became familiar with its contents.

The Blue Book provided new students with much essential information. Floor plans helped them find their way through the jumble of halls. Copy explained the many complicated rules and regulations from checking out books from the library and use of the social room to after-school appointments and smoking.

They learned of the variety of extra-curricular activities, from band to football, and the awards and honors they might earn while at Proviso. The Blue Book also included songs, cheers, a history of the school, and a list of the faculty.

Every two years, a staff of juniors and seniors revises the contents of the book and adds up-to-date information to introduce new Provisoites to East.

SNIP, PASTE, WHACK! The Blue Book staff busily goes through the old book, deciding what information to use, what to change what to add.

Provi Uses Dummy To Produce Bright Book

"Where's the dummy?" This seemingly-derogatory remark did not refer to a member of East's student body but implied that the "dummy" or master plan for the 1963 Provi had again managed to disappear.

Pictures, copy, and other "misplaced" items turned up in the most unusual places as the staff, fortified with Italian beefs and French fries from Al's, entrenched itself in room 218 Tuesday nights to battle cutlines, headlines, and deadlines, which arrived with frightening rapidity.

Listing activities next to senior pictures, the editors yielded to the desires of the student body and aimed at the All-American A+ and Medalist honors that the 1963 book won from the rating services.

The Provi office took on a holiday air for the Christmas potluck which doubled as a farewell party for Mr. Edward Todd, assistant advisor, who left to assume a similar position at Proviso West.

Staff members exchanged ideas with other editors at the NSPA conference at the Conrad Hilton, the ISHSPA convention at the University of Illinois at Urbana, and Chicago Scholastic Press Guild meetings.

Freshmen arriving at East in September little knew how much work had gone into putting out the traditional green Pageant awaiting them. On days hot enough to tempt editors to go barefoot, the staff began the pattern followed during the school year. Heads. . .er. . .headlines rolled amid mounds of hamburgers and French fries as Pageant people wrote stories and read copy, galleys, and page proofs.

Staff members held a birthday party for advisor, Mr. Ronald Kozlowski, and, as a joke, presented him with a handmade horsewhip. Later, they celebrated the birthday of the editor-in-chief, and in December, relaxed with a Christmas party.

In addition to the 24-page holiday issue, which featured the celebrations of Christmas and Hannakah, Pageant published a special American Newspaper Week edition for which it received an award from Quill and Scroll. In June the newly-appointed staff put out the "junior paper."

Winner of All-American, Medalist, and Gallup Awards, and top honors from Quill and Scroll, Pageant gained new ideas through lectures and discussions at the ISHPA convention in Urbana and at the NSPA conference at Conrad Hilton Hotel in Chicago.

Waack Matchmaker

"Pick up the tempo." These were familiar words to East's Thespian troupe, who under the direction of Mr. William Waack, presented Thornton Wilder's farce, "The Matchmaker," as their fall production.

Mark Lamos and Carmen MacDonald headed the production as Horace Vandergelder and Dolly Levi. Mrs. Malloy (Cynthia Sybilla) and Minnie Fay (Aina Sneiders) became involved with Cornelius Hackl (Pat Spohnholtz) and Barnaby Tucker (Bill Dodds). These two young men searching for adventure in New York finally persuaded the ladies in the hat store to go to the restaurant with them by singing, upon request, "Tenting Tonight."

Mrs. Malloy and Minnie, overcome by their sincerity, moved across the stage, hypnotized, to join in the chorus. This comical incident, one of the many, was funny not only to the audience, but to the actors who laughed so hard that they could hardly sing.

Art students under Mr. Edward Jaunsem designed the scenes, while members of the costume committee managed the bustles, feathered hats, and other finery of the 1880's. Members of the props and publicity committees contributed to the success of the play.

"BUT IF WE HAD your uncle's permission, we wouldn't have to elope," Ambrose (David Flatt) patiently explains to Ermengarde (Mary Pitts).

"I GUESS I'll order my usual—nothing. She seems to have ordered enough for both of us," Mr. Vandergelder informs Dolly and waiters.

"IF I CUT your throat, it will be practically unintentional," says barber Joe Scaloni (Dennis Grimaldi) to Mr. Vandergelder (Mark Lamos).

Borrow Little's Time

This spring's all-school play, Paul Osborn's fantasy, On Borrowed Time, related the unusual story of Death, in the human form of Mr. Brink, trapped in an apple tree by Gramps Northrop and Pud.

Starring with Steve McGuire as the mischievous Pud and Mark Lamos as the crusty old Gramps, Ron Hirsen played the frustrated Mr. Brink. Kathi Luther as the vicious Demetria Riffle complicated matters by trying to influence other members of the cast, especially Francine Baughman as Granny Northrop.

While rehearsing the play, the Thespian actors had many humorous experiences. Directed by Miss Elizabeth Little, the thirteen-member cast, which included a dog, presented two matinees and one evening performance of Osborn's comical yet realistic play. The detail of scenery, which included a full-sized apple tree, added to the realism of the production.

DISGUISED AS MR. BRINK, Death (Ron Hirsen) invites a reluctant Pud (Steve McGuire) and Gramps Northrop (Mark Lamos) to go with him.

CONVINCED THAT his victim could not die, Gramps shoots a skeptical psychologist to prove that he has trapped Death in his apple tree.

Varsity Debaters Take First Place In State Competition

As a climax to the unequaled season attained by Proviso East's varsity debate team, four members of the squad captured first place honors in the state competition in April. Richard Bryan and Robert Marshall debated for the affirmative while Lawrence Wick and Harold Williamson took the negative.

The varsity foursome included an all-veteran team composed of Harold Williamson and Joel Schick as affirmative and Richard Bryan and Lawrence Wick as negative. The team took part in the Metropolitan Debate Union, a league composed of sixteen teams, and captured second place when they won 22 contests and lost eight out of the thirty debates.

The Columbia Broadcasting System's television show "Rebuttal" featured the team in its high school debate series. In Round One of the show, the team of Richard Bryan and Lawrence Wick defeated the debate team from Arlington High School. Norman Gordon and Lawrence Wick beat Bowen High School's debaters in Round Two and faced Evanston High School in the Round Three debate held in April.

The team took third place in major meets in the Illinois National Forensic League district competition held at Illinois State Normal University and in the meet held at Northwestern University. At the Navy Pier branch of the University of Illinois and Augustana College in Rock Island, the varsity debate team captured second place.

For the sixth consecutive year the Provivso East debate team qualified for the state tournament held at the University of Illinois at Urbana in April.

Forensic Team Sends Member to State Meet

Laughter, tears, and words of congratulations greeted members of the forensic team as they discovered how they had placed in their respective divisions. Under the coaching of Mr. Clay Wilmington and his assistant Miss Yolanda Unakis, the students on the team spent many hours in preparation for each meet. The teams competed on such points as ability, effort, and resourcefulness.

The forensic team took second place in the Morton West Invitational and placed high in tourneys held at Illinois State Normal University and Thorton Fractional South, Waukegan, and Rich East high schools.

Individually, members of the squad, David Flatt, radio; Frances Burnette, prose; Judi Halliburton, comedy; and Carmen McDonald, serious; placed in both the district and sectional tourneys. Robert Marshall took first place in extemporaneous speaking in both the district and sectional contests. Winning these made him eligible for the state tournament.

Most members of the team earned enough points this year to qualify for the National Forensic League.

Pirates Share Tie For Third In Suburban League

Opening with the annual contest against the East Aurora Tomcats, Proviso gridmen, under Coach Andy Puplis, overran the opposition, 26-7. Fullback Sal Pizzoferrato spearheaded the Pirate attack when he made the first Pirate touchdown of the year.

The winning spirit took hold as Proviso trampled the Niles East Trojans, 13-0. The outstanding spectacle of the afternoon came in the form of an 85-yard touchdown run by Leo Howard on a punt return.

The first Pirate defeat came at the hands of a strong New Trier eleven. The Indians' running threat proved too much for the loser's defense. The final score stood New Trier, 20, and Proviso, 12.

Despite this loss, the Bucs came back strong the following week to blank Waukegan, 13-0, on the Bulldogs own field. The two Proviso touchdowns came as a result of TD passes thrown by junior Dick Conrad to Claude Grace and Art Burrell.

Puplis' machine fell again, this time to Evanston in a 20-12 effort. Howard's 90-yard kickoff return and Conrad's completed pass to Burrell accounted for the Proviso scorings. Homecoming brought a rainy but bright day for the Pirate gridders as they sloshed over Morton East, 14-0. Sylvester Smith and Howard carried the Pirate touchdowns. Grace tackled a Mustang punter in the end zone for a safety.

The trip to Highland Park resulted in a close match as East conquered the Giants, 13-7. A run by Howard and a pass from Conrad to Gerald Sterling brought the winning scores. The visiting Oak Park squad overpowered the Pirate gridders in the last game of the season by a score of 13-6. Pizzoferrato scored the final touchdown with 2:12 left to play.

"PRACTICE MAKES PERFECT," Bill Bosco seems to take this motto to heart as he practices kicking and making faces to use on opponents.

The team, as a whole, functioned according to Coach Puplis' instructions. This teamwork resulted in a 4-3 conference record for the Pirates. This placed them in a tie position with Oak Park for third place honors in the Suburban League.

The Pirate gridmen compiled a total of 83 points in league competition while their opposition scored only 66 points against them. This record placed the Pirates third in the conference as a defensive unit.

Members of the varsity team elected Don Voit the most valuable player of this year's squad. As tackle, Voit helped the team offensively and defensively.

"THOSE GUYS are playing dirty," says Pirate gridman during time out of a soggy gridiron hassle with Morton East at homecoming game.

Bucs Take Crown In Soph Suburban League

After getting off to a slow start, a determined sophomore team came from behind to win the Suburban League Crown. Under the guidance of Coaches Richard Barham, Howard Current, Robert McNeal, and Lawrence Meyer, the Bucs were able to finish the season with a league record of 6-1 and a season record of 6-2.

The Bucs started the season by dropping a non-conference game with Aurora East, 19-7. A week later, the sophomore gridders took on the Trojans of Niles and again found themselves on the short end of the score, 7-6. The following week-end, the Bucs, pitted against New Trier, defeated their opponents by a score of 38-7 and started on a victory trail eventually leading to the league championship.

In winning the Sophomore Suburban League Football Championship, the sophomore gridmen brought the title back to Proviso for the first time in 24 years. In addition to winning the crown, they also led the league in scoring with 142 points. The Bucs averaged over 20 points per game; meanwhile they held their opponents to only nine points per game.

Undefeated JV Team Captures Suburban League Crown

Under the tutelage of Coaches Daniel Braucher and Gordon Busse, the Jayvees finished their season with a 5-0-0 record, boasting an undefeated season for the blue and white junior varsity team.

Fighting a torrent of rain as well as their adversaries, the Jayvees trounced Oak Park's Huskies to open their year. Dick Orlandino's nine-yard run and Ron Zito's PAT kick sewed the game up for East. A week later at New Trier, Tom Rowe, working on Bill Bosco's twelve-yard pass, broke the mid-game tie. Ron Zito's PAT put the Bucs in the lead, where they stayed until the end of the game. When the eleven met Evanston's Dragons, they encountered a fast-moving squad which managed to keep neck-and-neck until the end of the third quarter when East pulled out with a seven point lead to win the game.

The victorious eleven kept Morton East's Mustangs scoreless, and trounced Highland Park by twelve points, Mike Vandeveer scoring twice and Vic Peterson scoring once. With this record, the Jayvees easily captured first place in the Suburban League.

Losses Present Challenge to Frosh Gridders

Proviso East's Freshman A squad, under Coach Don Parker, finished the season with a record of two wins, four losses, and one tie which placed them in fourth place in the Suburban League. The Baby Bucs started their season with a tie with Niles, 0-0, followed by a loss to New Trier, 21-13. They lost to Waukegan, 21-13 and also lost to Evanston, 40,0, but bounced back for a win over Morton East, 13-12, and another win over Highland Park, 18-13. The Bucs lost their final game to Oak Park, 26 to 12.

Proviso's Frosh B gridders, coached by Mr. Louis Slimmer and Raymond Schneider, finished the season with no wins, 2 losses and 3 tie games. They began their season with a tie with Niles, 0-0. They dropped the next two by losing to New Trier, 7-0, and falling to Waukegan 33-0. The Bucs finished the season with two tie games, against Morton East and Oak Park.

The C squad ended with no wins and three losses.

Harriers Step Up To Fifth Place In League Standing

Proviso's harriers finished the league season with a record of two wins and five losses, earning them fifth place in the Suburban League meet and seventh place out of twenty-one teams in the district meet. The top five runners were Larry Wieczorek, John Klein, Bill Ronigsfeld, Rich Gutman, and Mike Armer.

Larry Wieczorek, a junior, was the Pirates' outstanding runner. Larry ran first for the Pirates in all meets. Wieczorek ran third in the Suburban League meet, third out of 147 harriers in the district, and seventh out of 176 runners in the state meet.

Cagers Finish Third in Suburban League

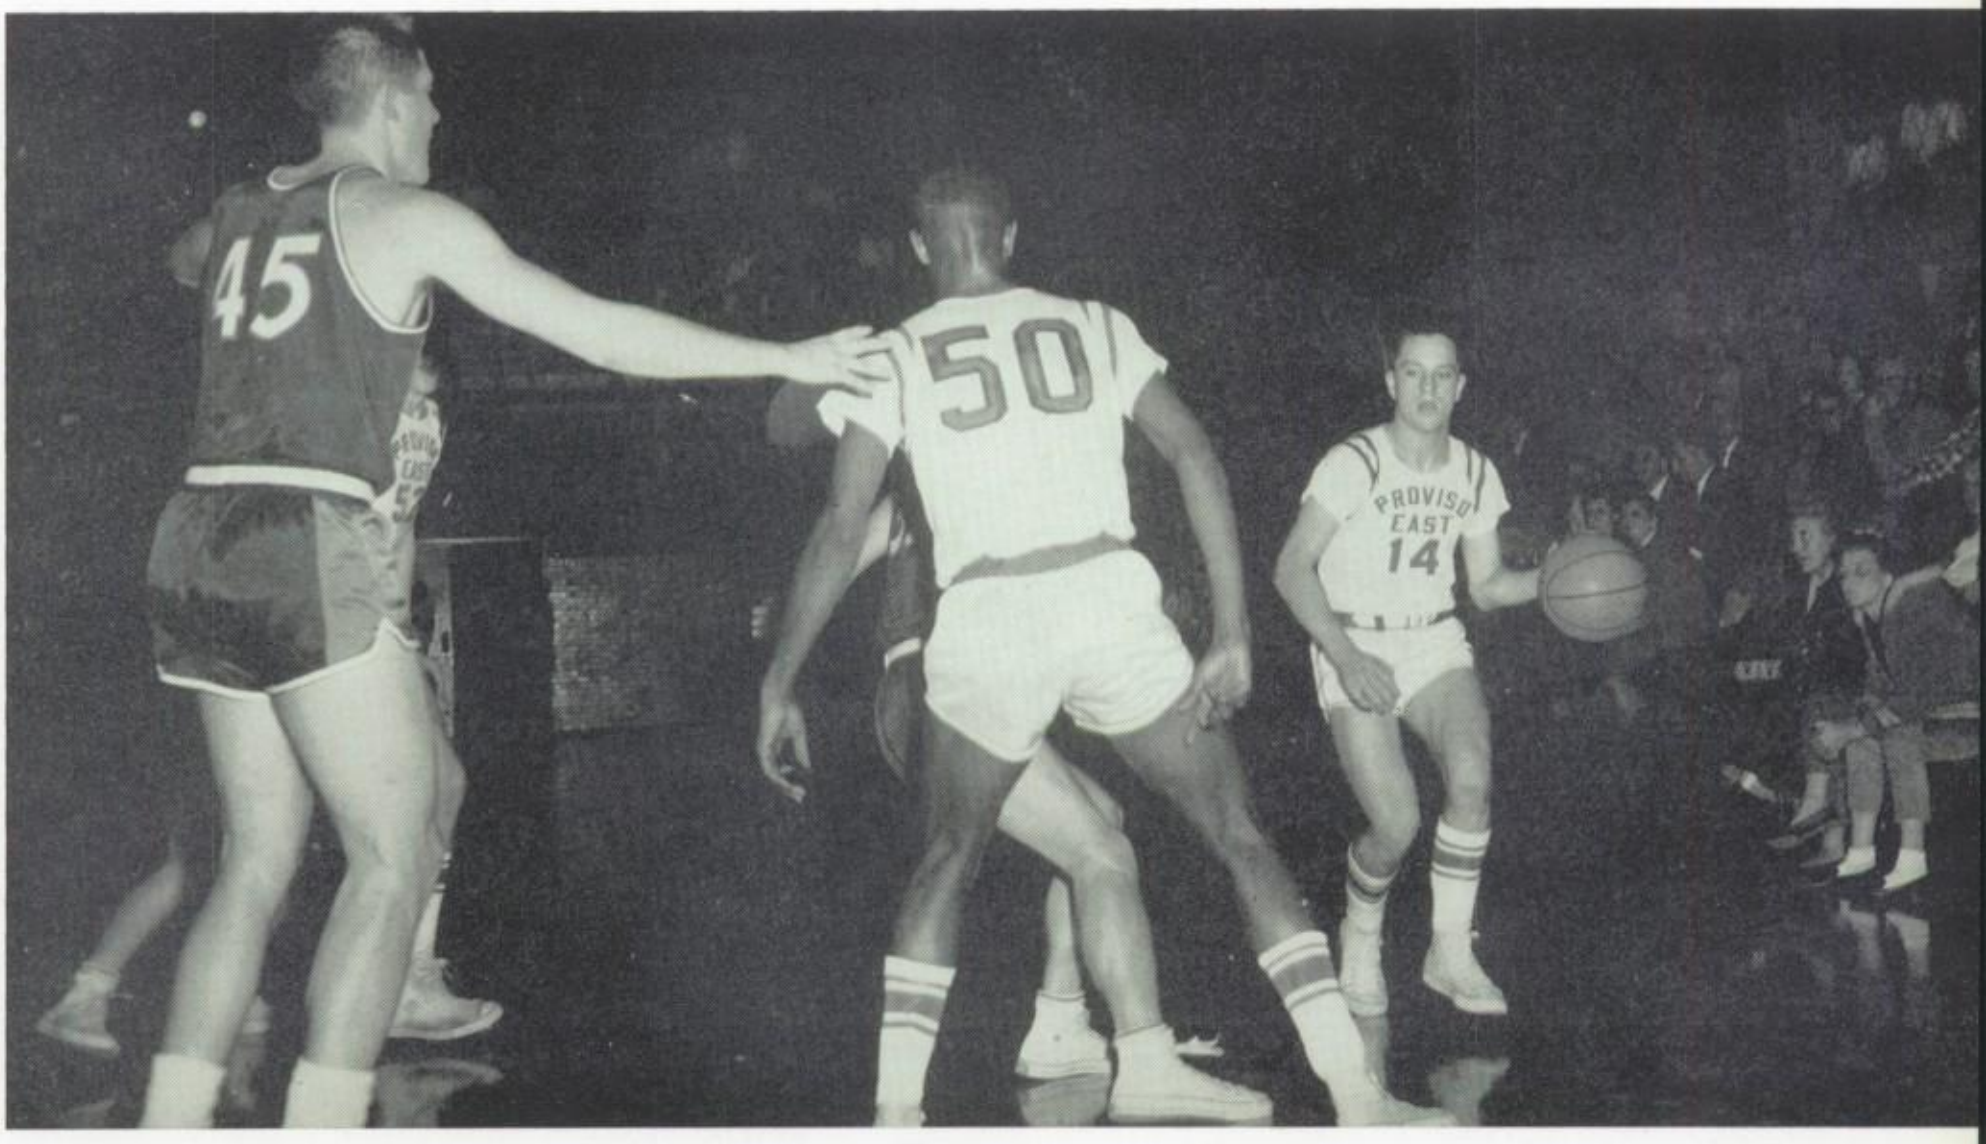
Small but strong defensively, the Pirate five dribbled to a 14-7 season record this year. According to Coach Millikin, this year's team excelled in defensive play, holding nine of their opponents to less than 40 points. Poor shooting, however, hindered their offense in league games.

Leo Howard, the squad's most valuable player, led scoring with 293 points while John Stinson followed with 269. Stinson's jumping ability also helped Pirate rebounding at needed moments.

Junior John Hansen scored a total of 105 points for the season. Other juniors, Dick Conrad and Louis Yates, played most of the season as starting guards. Seniors Al TeBockhorst, John Webb, and Richard Johns combined to clear the boards of 171 rebounds.

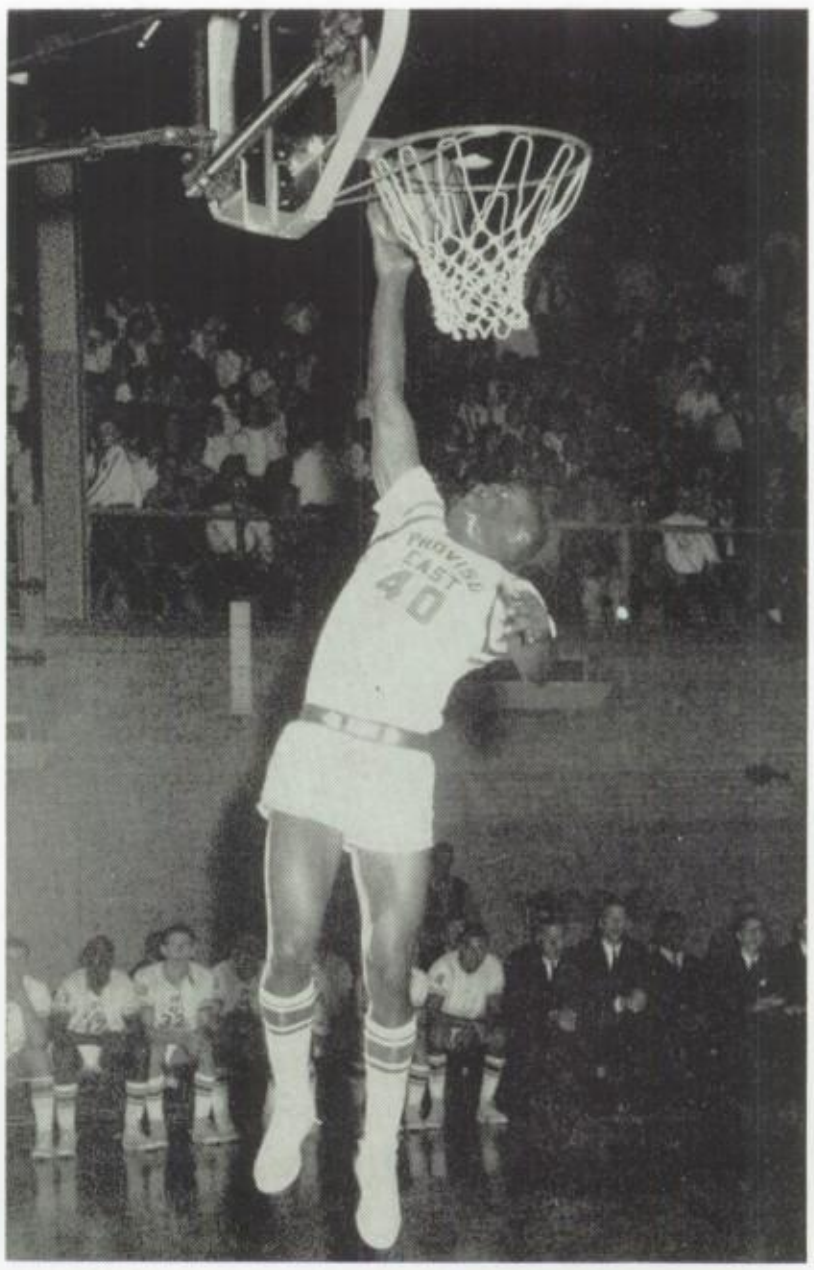
The second Waukegan game provided the closest home game of the season. A two-pointer, by Dick Conrad in the closing minutes of the game, brought victory to the Pirates, 40-39. Proviso lost its final league game to Evanston, 53-40. This defeat gave the Millikinmen a third place finish in the League.

A 63-54 loss to Willowbrook in the final game of the Riverside-Brookfield Regional Tournament eliminated all of Proviso's hopes for a state championship. The Pirates checked Proviso West and Riverside-Brookfield before meeting their final defeat.



DICK CONRAD, trying to take advantage of weak spots in opposing team's defense, suspiciously dribbles toward a group of poised players.

Varsity Squad Elects Howard Most Valuable Player



LEO HOWARD, the team's top scorer and rebounder as well as most valuable player, finds himself in clear spot and easily sinks a basket.

AMAZING SPECTATORS with the height of his jump, John Stinson adds two more points to his total which reached 269 at the season's end.

Sophs Rank First In Suburban League For Second Year

Under the coaching of Mr. Dan Braucher, the sophomore cagers finished first in the Suburban League for the second consecutive year. Owing their title to a 14-2 won-loss record, they chalked up a 12-2 record in the Suburban League, losing only to Morton East and Highland Park.

Defensively, the quintet allowed only 530 points, an average of 32.1 points per game. On the offensive side, the 690 point mark was reached, representing a 43.1 point average per game.

Al Nuness, one of the co-captains, led the team in scoring with 179 points while Ed Howard acquired 105 and Mike Green, the other co-captain, chalked up 137. Other leading scorers included Ron Gwyn with 103, and Ron Smith with 78.

In the rebound division, Ron Gwin led with 155 or an average of 10 per game. Al Nuness with 137, and Ed Howard with 95 followed closely.

The last two games showed the sophomores best in Suburban League. In both the Oak Park game and New Trier game, Proviso showed decisive victories.

New Coach Helps JV Cagers Capture Second-Place Honors

Battling to second place in the league, Proviso's Junior Varsity basketball team gives hopes of a bright season next year, predicts Coach Tom McGreal. The team averaged 50 points to their opponents' 36 to finish the season with a 13 and 2 win-loss record.

Bill DuBois, the leading scorer, John Meese, Tony Parker, Roscoe Watson, and Paul Madsen, the top rebounder of the team, started the action for the JV.

After defeating Leyden West 51-28, the Bucs squeaked by Morton East 32-31 and downed York, Highland Park, Glenbard West, Oak Park, New Trier, Niles East and Waukegan before losing to Evanston with a score of 32-48.

The second game against Evanston proved the highlight of the season as both teams competed for first place in the league. Losing the meeting 43-48 game East's JV team second place.

Coach McGreal credits the JV second-place finish to a well-balanced team and consistent good playing.

Buc Freestyler Beats Qualifying Time To Enter State Meet

Under the direction of the new swimming supervisor, Mr. Chris Mengel, the Buc Mermen managed to splash their way to a tie for fourth place with Oak Park in the Suburban League standings.

Highlighting the season was the runner-up position at the Riverside-Brookfield Invitational Meet. A fourth place finish in the District Meet produced the only Buc state qualifier, Carl Hostetler.

In the Suburban League Meet Carl placed sixth in the 200-yard freestyle and fourth in the 400-yard freestyle. He bettered the minimum state qualifying time in the District Meet to enter the State Meet.

Carl Johansson and Larry Youngsteadt placed sixth in the 100-yard freestyle and sixth in the 100-yard backstroke respectively at the League Meet. Dennis Chase came through with a fifth place in the 200-yard Individual Medley.

Howard Brown placed third in the Suburban League Meet in the 100-yard breaststroke. Gary Renton proved valuable to the Medley Relay team by swimming fastest in the butterfly.

Juniors Gary Marine and Paul Martens, sophomore Dudley Brewton, and freshman Don Hermann will add strength and depth to the Varsity Squad next year.

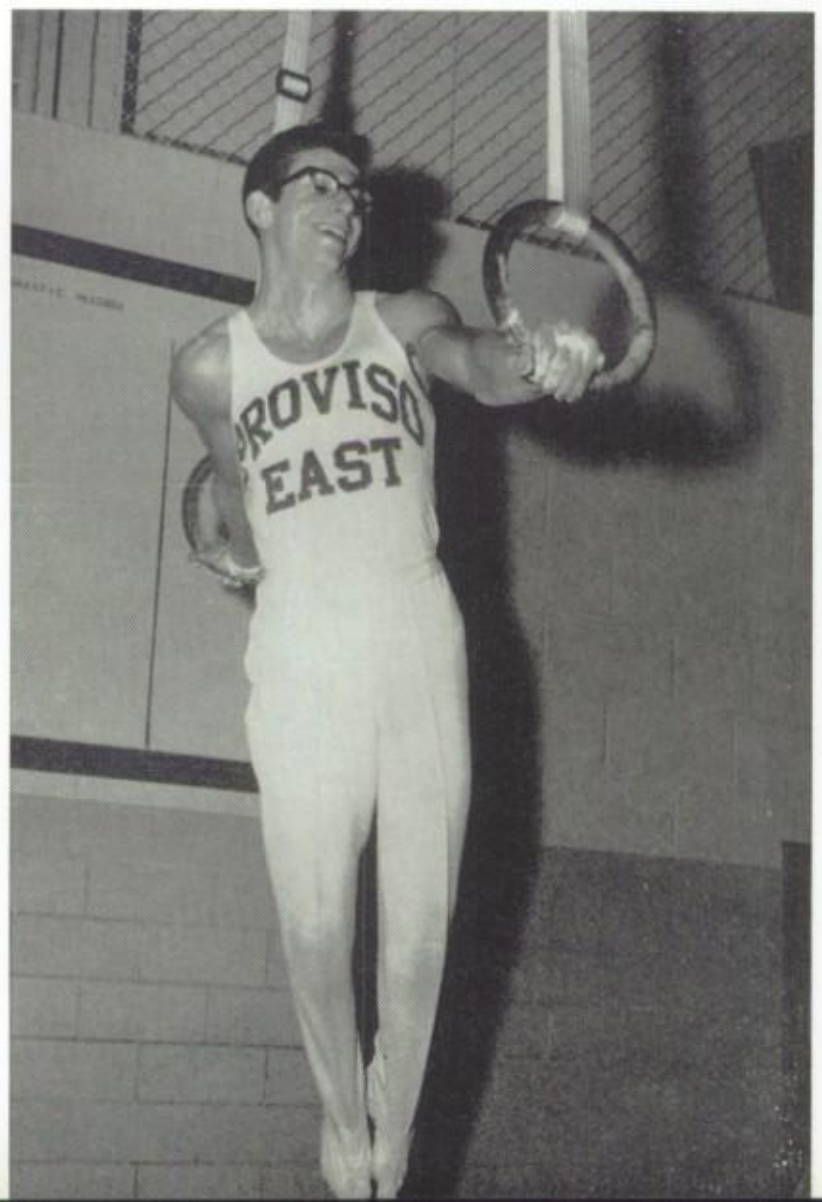
Evanston Victory Gives Gymnasts First 'Grand Slam'



PERFORMING AN OLYMPIC CROSS on the rings, Howard Sokol, East's most valuable gymnast, practices before entering state competition.

The varsity gymnasts, under Mr. Bill Roetzheim, finished the season with a record of 11 wins and two losses. Capturing first place at the Evanston Invitational completed a gymnastic "grand slam" as East became the first team to win the Evanston, Northern Illinois, Suburban League, District, and State meets.

Leading the team in scoring, Howard Sokol performed on the parallel bars and still rings while George Husser won the state championship on the side horse with a record-breaking score of 186 points out of a possible 200. This win gave him an undefeated season. Despite a good showing in individual events, however, the team placed sixth in the state.

Under Mr. Sanford Horn, their new coach, the sophomore team took second place in the Suburban League in spite of their dual meet record. Dick Swetman led the team by winning the all-around event while Alfred D'Angelo, Terrence Lavan, and Dominic Bonavolonta also accumlated high scores.

'All for Proviso Stand Up and Holler' Urge Cheerleaders

Even torrents of rain during the homecoming game failed to discourage East's varsity cheerleaders. After hours of summer practice, the girls inspired Provisoites to give vocal support to its football teams and participated in a cheering clinic at Reavis High School in November to prepare for the basketball season. Discarding their heavy out-door uniforms, cheerleaders donned new blue blouses and white pleated skirts for the winter sports season.

Miss Joyce Mickley, a new teacher and former Proviso graduate, directed the six sophomore cheerleaders as well as the varsity squad. By cheering the sophomore team to the Suburban League championship, the girls acquired new techniques for future use.

GAA Provides After-School Sports Development

Proviso's Girls' Athletic Association provided an opportunity for girls to participate in social and athletic events and to serve their school.

Socially, members organized a freshman funday, competed against Proviso West in a play day get-together, and disguised themselves as ball players, gypsies, and dictators for their annual Halloween party. The girls completed their year by inviting their moms to the mother-daughter banquet and their favorite escorts to the turn-about dance.

Athletic activities filled after-school hours with tennis, archery, speedball, fencing, and trampoline during fall months, while the girls kept active during the winter by swimming, bowling, and playing basketball, volleyball, badminton, and speedball.

Welcoming incoming freshmen, GAA'ers entertained them at the eighth-grade get-together, helping them to become better acquainted with Proviso.

By earning two points for each hour of attending an activity, members received local and state awards.

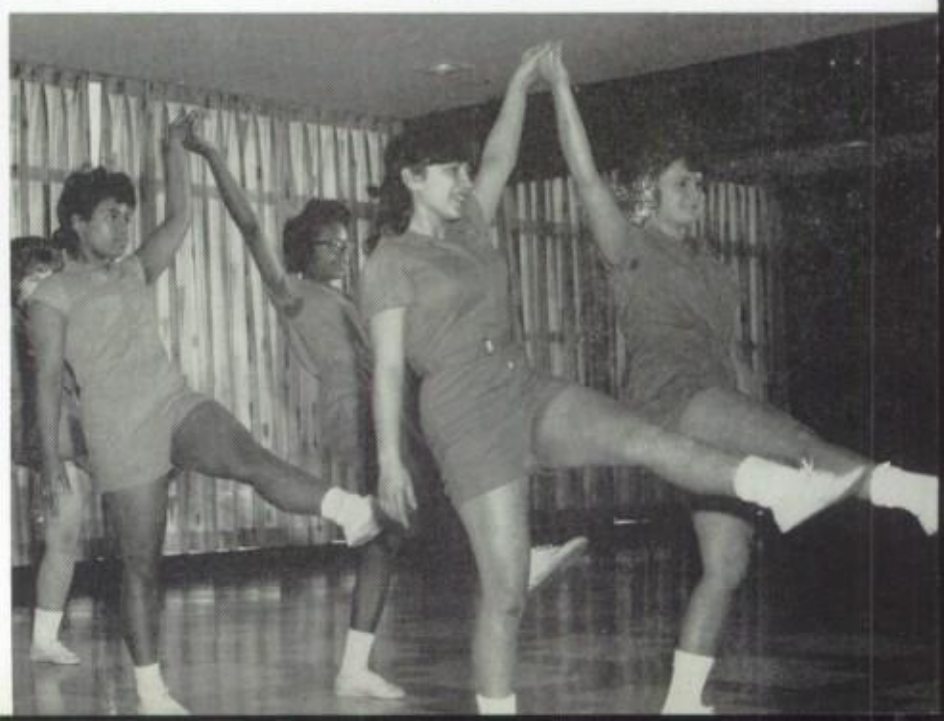
GOOSE-STEPPING to "Salty Dog Rag," freshman girls learn to synchronize body movements with the rhythm as part of physical education.



East's two truly "leading groups," the leaders and leaders-in-training strived toward the goal of service. Under Miss Barbara Berger, the trainees crammed a four-year curriculum into one year by mastering game fundamentals and rules, equipment care, and the all-important warm-up exercises.

Full-fledged leaders helped physical education teachers by leading exercises and instructing individual groups in various skills. Leaders now in training will assume these duties next September.

Showing feminine interest in competitive sports, the seven-member interscholastic tennis team, Sue Marks, Kathy Meyer, Lerryn Chase, Sally Sayre, Nancy Stunf, Pat Lullo, and Loree Knaub, earned a 2-win, 2-loss record under guidance of Miss Berger.

In long lines for medical examinations,
Hearing and seeing tests,
And tuberculin skin tests.
But with this out of the way,
They settled down to exercising their minds
In English, General Science, and other courses
And their bodies in physical education classes.
Under the guidance of Dr. E. W. Kochenderfer,
They took part in the Charity Fun-Nite
And planned the class party, "Fantasy Fair."

Sophomores Come on 1100 Strong To Lead Classes

Shedding freshman green in manner
As well as a class color for bow week,
Sophomores assumed the self-assured air
Of those who knew their way around.
Never idle themselves,
They tackled Idylls of the King
And Julius Caesar with vigor.
Unraveling the mystery of short stories,
Squaring the hypotenuse of right triangles,
And preparing slides of protozoa
Occupied academic class periods
While driver education
Provided practical behind-the-wheel training.
In the library,
Sophs discovered the perfect spot to study
And to meet friends.
To conclude the year, Mr. Robert Feeley helped Sophs plan a party to celebrate attaining Junior status.

Planning for Future, Juniors Attack Battery of Tests

Between the disappointment of losing
The junior-senior basketball game by one point
And the thrill of ordering senior rings,
Juniors crammed for government exams
In United States history
And, with sights focused on college,
Tackled SAT
And National Merit qualifying tests.
They captured second prize
In the homecoming float contest
And planned their prom, "Silver Mist,"
With the help of Mr. Marvin Ray, class sponsor.
As the seniors prepared for graduation,
The juniors assumed control
Of school organizations
And began anticipating their final year
As citizens of
The World of Proviso Pete.

JUNIOR CLASS OFFICERS—SITTING: Peggy Sobolik, Eugene David, and Paula Credity. STANDING: Beverly Coakley and Mr. Marvin Ray.

Pictures, Rings, Caps, and Gowns Symbolize Final Year

September brought school, football, autumn leaves,
And senior rings.
Despite the weather, soggy seniors
Proudly watched their float capture third prize
And later witnessed the coronation of Proviso's
First homecoming queen at "Injun Summer."
While studying Beowulf in English classes,
They nicknamed Grendel's mother "Hansel."
The class of '63 tromped the class of '64 by one point
At the Junior-Senior Basketball Game,
And, in turn, were tromped by batteries of tests.
Tired seniors celebrated the end of final exams
At the Senior Fun Nite, "Wiseman's Refuge."
Ending the year's work, seniors whirled among the Celestial columns of Grecian grandeur at "Olympiad."
Present, past, and future paraded by at Class Day
While graduation ceremonies on June 13 marked the End of the Beginning.

AS JUNIORS, the Class of '63 receives the traditional ribbon axe, symbol of senior prestige and status, from Class of '62 at Class Day.

Exhausted Staff Joins Proviso Pete On Top of World

Although sending final copy to the printer left us
Sitting on top of the world like our mascot,
Proviso Pete, we also experienced an empty feeling
As our successors began planning the 1964 Provi.
Throughout the year, Mr. Norman Semmelroth,
Our printer, Mr. Larry Wells, our engraver,
And Mr. Bill Snell of the S. K. Smith Company
Took our unusual ideas with surprising calmness.
Braving sub-zero weather and unstable desk tops,
Mr. Lenny Novak, our photographer, sought novel
Angles while Mrs. Brooks and Root Studios supplied
Enlargements and prints on request.
Mr. Tom Corgan generously contributed special shots
While Mr. Nickolas Ernest helped shape art work.
Selling books and pictures, Miss Dorothy Thompson
And the business staff kept us in operating money
And Mr. Edward Todd, our assistant advisor, put up
With Provi food before leaving for West.
During the year, three and one-half pairs of gloves,
Three pairs of glasses, a couch, and an overdue
Library book mysteriously appeared in our office
While pictures disappeared equally mysteriously.
Through all our misadventures, such as losing
Our ID cards for sneaking to our lockers after five
And accidentally setting off the fire alarm,
Miss Eleanor Johnson, our irreplaceable advisor,
Always stimulated our efforts and somehow tolerated
A staff which possessed little respect for deadlines
And continually put in carbons backwards.

EDITOR-IN-CHIEF Darlene Napady discusses plans for the '63 book with its printer, Norman Semmelroth, and engraver, Larry Wells.
